BRITISH POUND ABOVE OLD PAR

Canadian Press and Associated Press
New York, Nov. 6.—After touching the par figure in early trading, a value it had not reached since the fall of 1931, the Canadian dollar finished firm on the foreign exchange market here to-day.

Final prices posted on Dominion funds were 99 15-16 cents, a gain of 5 1/16 of 1 per cent, compared with Saturday's final figure. After touching par in terms of United States funds, Canadian money reacted to 99 1/2 before again strengthening.

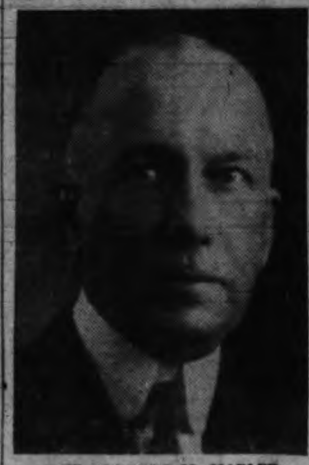

FOUND GAINS
The pound sterling jumped 6 1/2 cents at the start to $4.90 1/2, a new high point since Great Britain suspended gold in the fall of 1931, as cable reports indicated a flight of funds from Paris to London, based on belief concerning remaining on the gold standard might be forced off.

Sterling made slightly after the opening and finished at $4.88 1/2.

The French franc was weak throughout the day, but after opening down 1/2 point at 6.06 and then dipping to 6.03 1/2, it recovered to 6.05 cents.

MINISTER ILL IN TOKIO

HON. HERBERT M. MARLER
Montreal, Nov. 6.—Howard Marler, son of Hon. Herbert M. Marler, Canadian minister to Japan, received word to-day his father was suffering from a "light case" of pneumonia. Indications were the minister's condition was not such as to cause grave anxiety and his son has not made preparations to leave for Tokio.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, has been admitted to a Tokio hospital, suffering from pneumonia, the State Department was advised to-day by cable.

The Canadian minister visited Canada a year ago for an operation and his health has not been good since then.

JAPAN DEBATE ON BIG NAVY

Associated Press
Tokio, Nov. 6.—Big navy propagandists warned Japan to-day against interpreting the American fleet's removal from the Pacific as a goodwill gesture.

They asserted, too, the projected shifting of the fleet to the Atlantic should not be interpreted as indicating improved relations, as some newspapers maintain.

Fighting for inclusion of a huge naval appropriation in the 1934-35 budget, the propagandists saw in the projected departure of the United States fleet loss of their argument for a bigger navy.

STRAP ORDERED BY COURT FOR TWO

Vancouver, Nov. 6.—Whippings were ordered to-day by Magistrate W. M. McKay for Alva Tilke and Arthur Finnie, "strong arm" bandits. The men will receive ten strokes of the strap each and in addition Tilke will serve six months in jail and Finnie three months.

Reginald Belanger, charged with Tilke and Finnie, was dismissed.

Finnie pleaded guilty to attacking and robbing Anton Dryer on October 18 and robbing him of a watch, overcoat, bankbook and fifteen cents, and to a similar attack on T. R. Heneage, who was robbed of $4 and a watch on October 17. No weapons were used in the robberies.

TEX GUINAN'S CAREER ENDS IN VANCOUVER

Actress, on Tour With Her Company, Dies After Operation; Internationally Known For Years as New York Night Club Hostess

Canadian Club
Vancouver, Nov. 6.—Texas Guinan lay here in death to-day, 3,000 miles away from the lights of New York, where for years she reigned as "Night Club Queen."

A disease against which she had battled in pain for a month in order that she might continue performances with her theatrical troupe—ulcerative colitis—sent her to a hospital last Tuesday. On Saturday a crisis was precipitated through bowel perforation and she died yesterday morning, some twenty hours after an operation.

The funeral service will be held in New York City, in St. Malachi's Church, of which she was a member. The remains will leave here to-morrow, accompanied by her brother, Tom Guinan of Portland, Ore., who rushed here on hearing news of her death yesterday morning.

"I would rather have a square inch of New York than all the rest of the world," Miss Guinan told her manager, Eddie Baker, when shortly before the (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

BRITISH TOKEN PAYMENT ON DEBT

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 6.—An official communiqué was expected to-day to set forth the failure of the United States and Great Britain to agree on war debt revision and showing another token payment will be made on the December 15 due date. This token will be made by Great Britain probably on the same terms as the June 15 installment.

The partial payment will be in recognition of the legality of the debt and will simply be received by the President in lieu of the full payment. In all likelihood Great Britain will take advantage of the American offer to use silver in the payment at the rate of fifty cents an ounce.

Nominees on Ballot Paper to Appear in Alphabetical Order on November 27

No New Candidates Put in Appearance

Conservatives Will Make Another Effort To-night to Merge Forces

Twenty-seven candidates will go to the polls in the fight for the four Victoria Legislative seats in the deferred election, on November 27.

When F. A. Willis, returning officer, closed the poll at the courthouse at 1 o'clock this afternoon, only two names had been withdrawn from the list of twenty-nine that had been nominated for the poll on November 2. The two names withdrawn were: W. J. Bowser, K.C., whose death caused the deferring of the poll, and Col. Lorne Ross, who had been running as an Independent.

The names on the ballot paper on November 27 will appear in alphabetical order, instead of being grouped by parties, with the government party nominees heading the list, it was announced. There is no announcement yet as to whether the party colors under which each candidate is running will be shown on the ballot paper, as was done on November 2.

It had been expected that a woman, who has taken part in previous elections here, would file papers as a candidate just before the nominations closed. But when the clock struck 1 o'clock she had not appeared. The only candidate who was on the scene was Joseph B. Clearhue, Liberal, and Robert Cassidy, Conservative.

None of the nomination papers were changed, remaining with the returning officer as they were at their original filing.

The full list of candidates declared properly nominated in the order in which their names will appear on the ballot papers, is as follows:

ANSKOM, HERBERT, 356 Newport Avenue; chartered accountant.

BISHOP, MAILES RANDALL, 816 Linden Avenue; broker.

BROWN, JAMES SUTHERLAND, Work Point Barracks, Esquimalt; Brigadier-General.

CAIRD, WILLIAM BAXTER, 1209 Whitaker Street; art metal worker.

CASSIDY, ROBERT, 605 Gordon Street; barrister.

CLEARHUE, JOSEPH RADENOCK, 1188 Hampshire Road; barrister-at-law.

CONNELL, ROBERT, 1047 Chamberlain Street; retired.

Votes Show Bennett Now Has No Mandate Declares Lapointe

Federal Government, After B.C. Election and Dominion By-elections, Cannot Claim It Has People's Confidence, Says Quebec M.P.

Quebec, Nov. 6.—The general election in British Columbia last Thursday showed the Conservatives were not strong enough to stop the progress of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and that provincial contest and the recent federal by-elections in Yukon, Que., Madawaska, N.B., and Mackenzie, Sask., indicated the people of Canada did not have confidence in the administration of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, said Hon. Ernest Lapointe, M.P. for Quebec East, and former Minister of Justice, in addressing a banquet of the Mercier Club here.

"The people of Canada have shown their feelings against two doctrines and two men," Mr. Lapointe said. "The people have spoken against the C.C.F. against socialism. Our friends the Conservatives seem content with that. They say it is a good thing. They forget in the meantime the C.C.F. received four times as many votes as they did. The people have also spoken against the Conservatives."

"The Conservatives are not strong enough to stop the progress of the C.C.F. It is the Liberals who have stopped the decline of Socialism and its development in Canada. Two causes have assured our victory. The first is the name of Prime Minister Bennett and the second is the name of James S. Woodsworth."

SENT TO ITALIAN AFRICAN POST

AIR MARSHAL ITALO BALBO

Rome, Nov. 6.—King Victor Emmanuel made Premier Benito Mussolini minister of both the air and the navy and the air today after accepting the resignations of Air Marshal Italo Balbo and Admiral Giuseppe Sirianni.

At the same time, the king named General Valerio under-secretary of the air and Admiral Cavignani under-secretary of the navy.

Balbo was named Governor of Libya, taking the place of Marshal Badoglio.

Admiral Sirianni becomes president of an iron ore company.

Premier Mussolini sent both Marshal Balbo and Admiral Sirianni cordial autographed letters thanking them for their long and loyal co-operation.

The king's decree accepted the resignation of under-secretary Russo of the navy and under-secretary Ricciardi of the air.

The wording of the decree indicated the military ministries of the air, navy, and war will not be combined as at first believed.

Air officers described Balbo as a devoted and said he would take a vacation of several months before assuming his new post as governor of Libya.

DEBT REPORT IN LONDON

London, Nov. 6.—The report of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross of the breakdown in the debt negotiations at Washington was ready for presentation to the cabinet to-day, but the official quarters considered the question of debt incidental to other immediate parliamentary issues.

In government quarters it is believed another token payment to the United States is soon to be announced to meet the December 15 obligation. It was agreed, however, the cabinet might not have time to reach a decision formally before the House of Commons reassembles to-morrow.

Indignation Blocks Mile of Beach Sale

Tolmie Government's Act Described as "Deliberate Steal" in Dying Hours

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Signs Order on Waterfront at Six Dollars an Acre

The Tolmie government, and particularly Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe as Minister of Lands, has been subjected to scathing criticism as the result of an order-in-council authorizing the Minister of Lands to make an agreement of sale at six dollars an acre of 163 acres of beautiful waterfront at Crescent Beach to the Crescent Beach Development Company which includes W. C. Shelley, former president of the Executive Council, among its directors.

The act has been scored by "The Herald," as a "deliberate steal" of the public heritage of the people of British Columbia in the dying hours of the government.

Announcement of the order-in-council was made in a Canadian Press dispatch dated November 1 reading as follows:

"The government to-day approved of the sale of Lot 642, Group 2, New West, to the Crescent Beach Development Company Limited at a price of $6 per acre. This is in settlement of waterfront extension rights of the company desired to complete initial holdings at this point."

The agreement of sale has not yet been completed and the storm of protest voiced immediately by the intentions of the government became public will probably block further progress in the negotiations. It is imperative that new government will not only upset the cutter Tenacity gave chase.

RAT BOUNTY IS PROPOSED

Rodent Population Growing Here Must Be Fought, Says Health Officer

Victoria may have to put a bounty on rats, or appoint an official rat catcher, to do its part in heading off a country-wide rodent menace, according to Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer.

The city health committee already has a matter under advisement and is considering necessary steps to exterminate a new and bolder type of rat, which inhabits a different environment than the old kind of garbage rat which frequented basements.

"Several of the health journals have been mentioning lately the increase in rats all over the country," said the doctor. "Right here in Victoria, where we used to have an occasional complaint about the animals, we get them nearly every day now."

"The peculiar part is that they feed on garden stuff like tubers and roots and are not confined to garbage and household refuse as such as the old-fashioned rats used to be. They often live in the fields instead of staying in basements and old warehouses."

The greatest menace from rats is the plague, but the doctor pointed out that Victoria had nothing of this sort to contend with. However there are other diseases attributable to the rodents and steps were necessary to head off any danger.

"What it really needs is a combined rat hunt by everybody in the community," he said. "The best remedy, of course, is cats, but the present case seems to have got beyond them."

By placing a bounty on rats, possibly only a few cents a head, the city might spur individuals into concerted action to prevent the growth of the rat population, the medical health officer said. Appointment of a rat-catcher, whose job would be to direct the campaign against the animals, might suffice.

NOISY NEW YORK CAMPAIGN ENDS

To-morrow People of City Will Elect Either McKee, La Guardia Or O'Brien as Mayor

New York, Nov. 6.—New York city's majority campaign closed to-day after an uproarious three-cornered race fought out amid the uncertainties of federal political cross-currents and confusion of tangled party allegiances.

To-morrow some 2,800,000 voters will choose among Joseph V. McKee, Independent Democrat running on the ticket for the "Recovery Party," Mayor John F. O'Brien, regular Democratic nominee, and former Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Progressive Republican on the Fusion ticket.

ALL CONFIDENT
All three candidates to-day laid claim to victory. La Guardia said he would win by a 650,000 plurality. Mayor O'Brien put his margin of victory at 490,000, while McKee predicted his election by 300,000 votes.

A national complexion was given the local fight by McKee's espousal of President Roosevelt's name and Fiorello General James Farley's personal endorsement of the recovery candidate.

While the White House has remained aloof, the campaign developed the underlying issue of administration retaliation against Tammany for its support of Alfred E. Smith in the Chicago convention.

FIST FIGHT AT HOLLYWOOD CLUB

P. Arno, Cartoonist, Knocked Out After Argument With D. B. Steele, Actor

Associated Press
Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 6.—Peter Arno, New York cartoonist, was knocked out in an exchange of fistcluffs in the fashionable Embassy Club here to-day. The argument allegedly was with Drexel Biddle Steele, actor and member of a prominent Philadelphia family, but Steele said the knockout blow was struck by his business manager, Gordon Butler.

Sally O'Neill, film actress, who accompanied Arno to the club and was reported to be the unwitting cause of the fight, was said by some witnesses to have ended the altercation by rapping Steele over the head with a chair. Miss O'Neill, however, denied she had any part in the fight.

Steele said Arno apparently had taken exception to his speaking to Miss O'Neill as he passed Arno's table. Later, Steele said, Arno came over to his table and made "a pass at me."

Managing Director of Libby, McNeill and Libby Tells of Increased Trade

L. J. Taylor Considers His Firm's Advance Indication of Canadian Business

"We have been working twenty-four hours a day since the middle of August, and our shipments out of Chatham are the best of our twenty-two years in Canada," said L. J. Taylor, managing-director of Libby, McNeill and Libby, who is in Victoria to-day on one of his semi-annual tours of inspection which start in St. John's, Newfoundland, and end in this city.

Mr. Taylor said that his firm's production for October of this year was 100 per cent higher than in the corresponding month last year.

Mr. Taylor attributed this increase in part to the greater trade with England which followed the Imperial Conference, but to a large extent to the all-round improvement which he said was beginning to be felt in all branches of trade throughout Canada.

This upward trend began in May, and is still continuing slowly but effectively. In the present circumstances steady improvement is inevitable, but there is no use expecting overnight a return to the abnormal boom times of 1928 and 1929, Mr. Taylor said.

Bird Catches Fish On Line

Saanich Arm Fishermen Recover Broken Line With Bird on One End and Dog-fish on the Other

J. P. Hall, 40 Howe Street, and F. E. W. Smith, 403 Niagara Street, both enthusiastic fishermen, are willing to take oath as to the truth of this story.

They were trolling for grilse at Saanich arm yesterday, and as the catch piled up in the back of the boat, Mr. Smith began cleaning the fish. When he threw the refuse over the side, huge flocks of gulls swooped down for scavenger duty.

One of the birds dove so hard, it struck one of the trolling lines trailing from the rear of the launch. The line caught in the gull's wing and snapped. The bird flopped around in the water, unable to swim or fly properly, in an effort to recover the rest of the fishermen gave chase.

After circling around for some minutes, Mr. Hall's line became fouled with the broken line, and he pulled it into the boat. Finally he hauled the broken line in across the middle and he took hold of one end as Mr. Smith took hold of the other.

Together they pulled. Mr. Smith rescued the seagull and untangled its wing. Mr. Hall pulled in a large dog fish on the hook.

The argument was whether the fish caught the bird or the bird caught the fish.

Strangely enough, a short while afterwards another gull became caught in a line the same way, but on that occasion the line did not break.

CREW IN JAIL AFTER RUM CHASE

Canadian Press
North Sydney, N.S., Nov. 6.—Having surrendered to the Royal Canadian Mounted police only after three shells had pierced the hull of their liquor-laden motorship, the skipper and crew of the W.A.F. 3 were held in jail to-day while ninety-four kegs of rum lay in the customs house. The shells ended a chase off the Cape Breton coast Saturday, when police aboard the cutter Tenacity gave chase.

Sidney Man Killed In Conveyor Shaft

Thomas Coward, Oiler at Sidney Mills, Caught in Rapidly Revolving Machinery

Aid Quickly Summoned, But Man Died Within Few Minutes; Body Brought Here

Caught in the conveyor shaft of the mill where he was employed as an oiler, Thomas Coward, twenty-seven, met a terrible death this morning at the plant of Sidney Mills Limited.

The unfortunate man had his right leg cut off and his head and chest were badly crushed when he was whirled into the rapidly revolving machinery. The accident occurred at 8:30 o'clock, and the victim died within half an hour.

F. Carlson, a fellow workman, first saw Coward as he was caught by the conveyor, and lost no time in summoning aid, the engine being shut off by Stuart Hill.

On being extricated from the machinery the injured man was removed to the first aid room, where Freeman King administered first aid, pending the summoning of Dr. H. G. Burden from Rethven, Sanitarium. The remains were brought into the city and are resting at the B.C. Funeral Parlors pending funeral arrangements.

Coward had been a resident of Sidney for the last twenty years, and was single. He spent part of last year on the prairies, but returned to work for the Sidney Mills Limited when the plant resumed this summer.

NEW BRITISH PARTY MOOTED

MacDonald Said to Propose "National" Group to Replace Conservatives

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 6.—The London Daily Express says Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald contemplates creation of a "National Party" to replace the present Conservative Party in Parliament.

The idea, the paper claims, has the support of Sir John Simon's National Liberal group, National Laborites and many Conservatives, who feel they owe their seats in the House to Liberal and Labor support at the last general election.

The Express to-day drew attention to the fact that recent East Fulham by-election, which brought Labor a striking victory, was fought and lost on purely Conservative lines, while National-Labor, supported by Simon Liberals and Conservatives, retained Kilmarnoch, Scotland, for the government.

If the government should lose Skipton, Yorkshire West Riding, to-morrow, the newspaper said, a crisis would come and that, it added, would lead to the new party, although indications existed there would be considerable independent Conservative movement.

Disarmament Debate In London To-morrow

Position of MacDonald Government on Difficult Question Will Be Shown Soon After Session Is Resumed

Canadian Press
London, Nov. 6.—Parliament will resume to-morrow to hear statements on the Government's disarmament policy and war debts and notice a bill will be introduced to reorganize the unemployment relief system.

Disarmament will give the opposition its first chance to strike at the government. Disarmament debates usually are more or less academic, with speeches following a stereotyped course. But the government now has to meet a many-sided criticism. Some who see security only in armaments want a bigger navy and a bigger air force. Some would wipe out such international obligations as those exemplified in the Locarno treaty.

Labor, on the other hand, wants more disarmament and threatens to promote a general strike in the event of another war.

SIMON TO SPEAK
Sir John Simon will open debate on disarmament and "Uncle" Arthur Henderson, chairman of the World Disarmament Conference, will take his seat in the House.

Meanwhile opposition to the administration appeared to-day to be growing. Political observers said they believed it was only a matter of time before the Liberal group led by Sir Herbert Samuel would join definitely with the opposition.

First Human Rocket Flight Is Reported

British Paper Tells of German Who Traveled Six Miles in Ten Minutes; Unconscious for Time

London, Nov. 6.—The first successful rocket flight made by a man was reported by the Sunday Referee of London. According to a dispatch Otto Fischer, a German inventor went up six miles into the air and descended on a parachute.

The flight, according to the Referee, was made under the supervision of the German Ministry of Defense, in great secrecy.

The journey lasted 10 minutes, 30 seconds, the dispatch said, the scene being at the Island of Ruegen, in the Baltic.

As the rocket gained speed, Fischer lost consciousness, said the report.

Up SIX MILES
He was stated to have reached a height of 32,400 feet (six miles and 722 feet).

Talking with friends afterward, he was stated to have said that when the course of the rocket changed and he began to drop, he regained consciousness.

Eventually his parachute opened and he floated to the ground.

Girl Married To a Rooster

Amazing "Proxy" Figures in Wedding Ceremony Performed in Canton, China

Associated Press
Canton, China, Nov. 6.—An amazing wedding in which a pretty Chinese girl married a rooster was solemnized here to-day.

Although her fiancé, Shin Kwang-tung, was living in Singapore, the girl's parents decided her marriage must be performed while they were still alive. Accordingly a graceful appearing cock from a neighboring poultry farm was selected to act as the bridegroom.

All of the elaborate ritual accompanying an old-fashioned Chinese marriage was observed while the beautiful bride, eighteen years old, received the congratulations of friends.

The rooster must remain her "husband."

URGES HIGHER FARM PRICES

President of Ontario Agricultural Council Suggests Federal Action

Canadian Press
Hamilton, Oct. 30.—H. D. Glover, president of the Ontario Agricultural Council, has written to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, urging the government step in if necessary to force higher prices for Canadian farmers.

"The spread between producers and consumers is very great," he declared. He described as "timely" the minister's recent statement in Winnipeg concerning price paid by packers to the farmers and interest rates charged by financial concerns, and added: "I hope our government will go far in the way of action towards recovery of an industry which will bring about an improvement in the financial affairs of our Dominion."

Search Is Made For Prospector

Associated Press
Prince Rupert, Nov. 6.—Matthew Allard, well-known pioneer prospector and prospector of Terrace, is missing on the Beaver River in the Kootenai Lake district north of Terrace, and some anxiety is entertained as to his safety, according to word received at district headquarters of the provincial police here. A search party, headed by Constable H. L. McKenney, left Terrace yesterday to hunt for Allard.

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Nov. 6.—"Past controversies are dead," declared Sir John Simon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, at a luncheon given today by the National-Labor Party, committee in honor of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin and himself, under presidency of the Earl of Warr.

The luncheon was symbolic of efforts being made to tighten the government coalition of National-Laborites, headed by Mr. MacDonald, Conservatives under Mr. Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, and the National Liberals under Sir John, in face of the likelihood of increased opposition from other Liberals and the Labor Party.

Sir John made this co-operation the keynote of his speech, along with a declaration parliamentary institutions must be upheld in Britain no matter what happened elsewhere. "There is great work to be done, but it can only be done if we work together," he said. "This is one of the few ancient countries in the world in which parliamentary institutions are actively operating with success. In Germany parliamentary institutions survive after a fashion, but only on the principle nobody should vote for anyone except the government candidate."

IN UNITED STATES

"Even in the United States the Americans are putting their faith in their time of trouble in a man and not in an institution. Now look at home, where we have overwhelming reasons for working together. The threat to parliamentary institutions by whatever name we disguise it, is the threat of dictatorship, and that is the danger from which the national combination of parties has to save Britain."

Prime Minister MacDonald took the same theme. "I and my fellow guests formed a combination almost against our will," he said. "A combination however was necessary, and I know not one of us is going to lift a finger to break it, so long as the national need for its continuance remains. Only those who have been in personal contact with leaders of other nations know what the effect of three parties pulling together has had on the world. The British National Government to-day remains the greatest standing influence in the world, both in trade and in conference. "Despite all the talk about munitions, war or any other untruth which our opponents seem to set up for the purpose of snatching votes, I would like to hear what they would say about peace if the government had not driven month after month to maintain peace."

The National government had failed to put out sufficient propaganda about itself, the Prime Minister said. Whenever he or his colleagues arranged to go about the country to tell the truth of what they were doing some trouble here or there had arisen to occupy their time.

"The condition of the world now means any attempt to return to party government—which is bound very soon to become a partisan government—is not only a mistake but a crime," Mr. MacDonald declared.

The British democracy, declared Mr. Baldwin, was the most educated democracy in the world. But if reasons were not put before it one had only oneself to blame if it voted contrary. The ordinary constitution had certainly broke down in the United States, he thought, and the people were practically under a dictatorship.

She added she wanted the public "who made me" to have an opportunity of seeing her. The body therefore will lie in state in New York, and in Chicago, en route east.

LIKE A FAMILY

An openly sobbing or sadly-silent company of forty girls sat about hotel rooms here to-day, scarcely able to realize their leader had been snatched from them so suddenly.

Mr. Baker, manager, shortly after her death, said: "We were one happy family. Texas loved the girls, and they loved her. We had no idea her condition was dangerous until Saturday."

The famous entertainer called in the hospital following her arrival here October 28 and was placed on a diet and given treatment. It was then she declared her code of the theatre: "I can't go on with this pain, but I must go on."

CAMPAIN ACTIVITIES

Campaign meetings of all parties which were interrupted here at the time of Mr. Guinan's death will be resumed within the next week.

Immediate interest centers around the meeting to-night under P. C. Elliott of groups having old-time Conservative leanings. At this meeting an effort will be made to settle on four of those nominated upon whom the full strength of the Conservative opposition will be concentrated. This proposal was related to-day by Robert Cassidy, who, in a statement, declared that he was the original and only old-time Conservative nominee, and that the present move was one to rob him of his party colors.

"I am not a doctor," he said, "but I am a nurse. I have been in the hospital for some time, and I have seen many people die. I have seen many people die who were not as sick as I am. I have seen many people die who were not as young as I am. I have seen many people die who were not as rich as I am. I have seen many people die who were not as powerful as I am. LIFE SENTENCE FOR ABDUCTOR

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 6.—George McGee, twenty-one, faces a sentence of life imprisonment, a jury having convicted him late Saturday of abducting his brother, Walter, now under sentence of death, in the $30,000 abduction of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of the city manager, and the death penalty and the jury was reported unofficially to be standing at one time eleven to one for that verdict. The compromise reached was based on the fact George McGee acted only as a guard at the kidnap cottage whereas his brother plotted the abduction. McGee, pictured in closing arguments by his attorney, Miss Lillian Knight, as a youth with "a cramped and empty childhood," heard the verdict without any display of emotion.

"Close Up Church Ranks," Says Bishop

Toronto, Nov. 6.—"Close up the Catholic ranks. Every Anglican is a Catholic, though we do not all realize it yet—but we shall," declared the Bishop of Algoma, Rt. Rev. R. R. Smith, at a meeting held here in celebration of the centenary of the Oxford Movement.

The bishop referred to the stagnant state of the Church of England prior to the Oxford Movement, and to the difficulties which had caused some brave men to be driven to Rome.

"I repeat," he said, "driven to Rome." Some men were even driven out of Canadian parishes into more friendly parishes.

"We must realize how goodly is our heritage. Catholics are persecuted, but they do not persecute. . . . Close the Catholic ranks . . . we need greater unity among ourselves if we are to advance as we should."

Jews Boycott GERMAN GOODS

Resolution Passed in London Appeals to Jews Throughout Empire

London, Nov. 6.—A Jewish boycott on German goods was voted at a conference here yesterday of 500 delegates representing 150,000 Jews in all parts of the country.

The resolution, unanimously adopted, placed an official boycott on German goods and appealed to Jews in all parts of the British Empire to abstain from purchasing or using German goods or services so long as the Jews in Germany are denied the status of full equality and citizenship.

"We are here to meet the challenge thrown in the face of the Jewish people by the Hitler regime," said P. Horowitz, chairman of the meeting.

"If the position in Germany has been merely in the character of a spontaneous uprising against Jews, we would have met it with protest and public meetings, but the Hitler regime is a challenge to the Jews of the world."

"It is an attempt to reduce the status of Jews in Germany, to make them pariahs among the nations."

BIG AUSTRALIAN LOAN PLANNED

Canadian Press
Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 6.—The Commonwealth Loan Council, which oversees all commonwealth and state loans for Australia, to-day decided to issue a $50,000,000 internal loan, the proceeds to be equally divided between relieving impending treasury bills and for government works. The loan will be issued at 99 and will bear 3½ per cent interest, being redeemable in ten years.

The Australian government recently successfully floated a $105,000,000 conversion loan in the London market.

JAPANESE DEBATE NEW NAVY PLANS

Associated Press
Tokio, Nov. 6.—Japanese naval propagandists, fighting to retain one of the most effective arguments supporting the navy's demands for a 1934-35 budget of 700,000,000 yen—concentration of the United States fleet in the Pacific—deluged the smaller vernacular papers to-day with denials of improved Japanese-American relations.

Widespread comment concerning lessening of Pacific tension because of the projected removal of the United States fleet to Atlantic waters had appeared in Japan's more influential dailies.

"Japan will be caught in an American trap if we reduce our building programme because of interpreting the United States fleet's summer cruise as a gesture of friendship," was a typical comment accompanying to-day's denials.

Canadians Declare For League Ideals

Evolution of Foreign Policies of British Commonwealth of Nations Topic of Prof. W. N. Sage of University of British Columbia

Special to The Times
University of B.C., Point Grey, Nov. 6.—To-day it is almost impossible to say whether there can be a unified foreign policy any more for the British Commonwealth of Nations, and if so along what lines, stated Dr. W. N. Sage, head of the department of history at the University of British Columbia in an address before the Vancouver Institute in the variety auditorium Saturday evening.

The British Commonwealth and Foreign Policy," and his treatment of this great subject proved unusually stimulating.

In dealing with the future policy of the empire, the speaker described the sentiment at the recent British Commonwealth Relations Conference in Toronto, which he attended. The resolution of the delegates from the Dominions and India was that, though they realized the League of Nations was not functioning adequately at present, the league idea represented the collective world system, and that the chief hope for mankind was bound up with the working out of this "collective system."

Dr. Sage observed that John W. Dief, editor of The Winnipeg Free Press and vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, had summed up this feeling when he said the delegates "came to praise the British Empire and stayed to worship the League of Nations."

PEACE OBJECTIVE

All the nations, including those comprising the British Commonwealth, must get together for peace, it had been felt. The foreign policy of the British group must have as its fundamentals general co-operation and equality of status among the parts, but this policy must be based on peace. To preserve the Commonwealth, it was necessary to preserve world peace. The speaker stressed the feeling that the formation of the League and the membership in it of the British nations had given a profoundly new meaning to the problems of the British Commonwealth.

By the provisions of the covenant of the League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand Pact, the British Commonwealth would be bound by a "league war." Thus, the British Commonwealth was essentially part of a world commonwealth. It would stand and fall with the world commonwealth, and a going back to the old ways and alliances would eventually mean disaster.

Professor Sage commenced his address with a historical outline. In the relations between the United Kingdom and the Dominions, including India, there had occurred in the last twenty years or so a profound change. The British Empire was no longer an empire in the old meaning, but one of the greatest political organisms the world had ever seen. The speaker stated he was careful to avoid using the word "unit." There had been epoch-making experiments of recent years in Russia and Italy and now in Germany, but "in the quiet British way, world empire has been transformed and, in a series of Imperial conferences, the hold of the mother country in a constitutional and political sense has been broken." This great step had not received the publicity of the Russian experiment.

Canada's demand for representation at the peace-making after the Great War, a demand based on what the speaker termed the unalienable right of a casualty list as great as Belgium's, had advanced the growing move toward the principle of co-operation among the members of the empire. But it was a difficult question; there must be a central brain. Should this central brain be the Secretary of State in London, or what?

In 1922, Dr. Sage contended, there had been the likelihood of Britain interfering on behalf of her ally, Greece, in a war with Turkey. Winston Churchill had sent telegrams to the various Dominions asking them what their attitudes to fighting were going to be. The fact that he had done this indicated the question of war was one that could no longer be settled in the British Foreign Office, at least as far as the Dominions were concerned. Then Canada, once more in the lead,

VIOLENCE SEEN IN FARM STRIKE

Auto Kills Farmer in Nebraska; Livestock Train Broken Up in Indiana

Associated Press
Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Death, violence and destruction of property brought a new tension to the farm strike to-day.

A Nebraska farmer was killed near Omaha City, Neb., yesterday evening when a speeding automobile crashed into a group of pickets clustered around a parked truck. Five were injured. Eight carloads of livestock were raided by pickets near Lawton, Ia., and the stock turned loose after the train had been halted by a huge pile of railroad ties on the tracks.

Picketing flared anew in Wisconsin. Forty thousand pounds of milk were dumped. Telephone wires were cut. Pickets and anti-picketing forces met at the Platteville, Wis., bridge over the Mississippi River, ready to clash. Governor Herring of Iowa announced the state was ready "to step in" if county peace officers were unable to handle the situation.

SECOND DEATH

Death of Frank Fletcher of Homer, Neb., brought to two the fatalities since the National Farm Holiday Association's embargo was declared more than two weeks ago. The other fatality occurred in Wisconsin.

Fletcher died before emergency treatment could be administered. The injured included three pickets, Harry Jackson, Emerson, who police said was the driver of the car, was held after the crash, together with a companion, Henry Mertens. Both were slightly injured.

Sheep and cattle wandered through the streets of Lawton after a crowd of more than 200 pickets had broken into a Chicago and Northwestern livestock train. Federal officials said they were without authority to act in the case, because the incident affected an interstate, rather than interstate, shipment.

CALL FOR TROOPS

The situation around Plattsmouth, Glenwood, Council Bluffs and Omaha was tense as embargo supporters and anti-picketing proponents awaited developments. An appeal from Sheriff W. A. de Moss of Mills County, Iowa, to call out militia to keep highways clear brought refusal from Governor Herring.

Labor, after receiving reports of expected disturbances and the train raiding at Lawton, the governor indicated troops would be made available if peace officers could not handle the situation. He said he had been informed most of the Lawton mob were radicals from Sioux City.

Brooks' wife was among the three killed instantly in the collision between two cars. The others killed were George Peters, twenty-eight, Port Huron, and Mrs. Esther Haseltine, Port Huron.

Chancellor Dollfuss Finishes Speech at Klagenfurt in Candle Light

Klagenfurt, Austria, Nov. 6.—The town was slightly scared to-day as the result of four bombs exploded while Chancellor Dollfuss addressed a Patriotic Front meeting Saturday evening, but the iron nerve of the "Little Chancellor" displayed during the blasts had won him new admirers.

Klagenfurt was plunged into pitch darkness by a blast which destroyed the city's lighting connections, but Dr. Dollfuss quelled an incident panic by continuing his address calmly.

Under the weird light of flickering candles, the statesman went on, pounding home the points of his appeal until the final paragraph was delivered ever though there was another bomb explosion just outside the meeting hall.

When he finished, however, he showed signs of the strain and the meeting quickly dispersed while police investigated the disorders. They believe Nazis or Socialists were responsible.

An examination showed the main electric cable leading to Klagenfurt had been blown up in three places. In all, four bombs exploded in various districts. Many windows were smashed.

had refused to sign the Lausanne Peace Treaty closing the Greco-Turkish war because the Dominion had not been represented at the negotiations. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, then Prime Minister, had announced he realized Canada was legally and technically bound by a treaty signed by Britain, but that the country would actually not accept the treaty as irrevocably binding.

The Hallbut Treaty of 1923, affecting the Pacific northwest fishing waters, had served to bring the question of foreign policy to the fore. As a result of Canada's contention that a treaty affecting just herself and the United States did not require the signature of a British ambassador, as had been the practice, the Imperial Conference of the same year had built new machinery for treaty-making which had constituted one more blow at a unified foreign policy.

LOCARNO TREATY

Neither the Dominions nor India had signed the Locarno Pact guaranteeing the maintenance of the French, German and Belgium boundary lines, the speaker continued. Great Britain, of course, had. What would happen, if, and when, these boundary lines were broken?

In dealing with aspects of the British Commonwealth Relations Conference, Professor Sage said there had been a definite cleavage between the foreign policy attitudes of Canada and South Africa on the one hand and Australia and New Zealand on the other. The Irish Free State had not been represented owing to the internal political situation, but it had indicated in the past its approval of the Canadian and South African Stand. The Australians and New Zealanders had advocated co-operation by all means, but also a common empire foreign policy centered in London and realized throughout the world by the foreign ambassadors. The Canadians and South Africans had not liked the centralized idea at all, but had stood out for ambassadors of their own.

Canada had, in fact, been reproached for having too much of a "North American view," because, for example, it was not so vitally interested in the British navy as Australia and New Zealand. But as the conference had progressed, the larger view had evolved of a British Commonwealth whose foreign policy was bound up with the welfare of the "collective system" and the world commonwealth, and Mr. Sage's words had summed up a prevailing sentiment.

THE NEW HOUSE RULE

During the provincial election campaign Liberal speakers in every constituency invited attention to the provision adopted by the Liberal convention proposing a change of procedure in the Legislature which would assure government members wider freedom in the discussion and voting on legislation submitted by the administration than they have been permitted to exercise. This provision provides:

The Liberal Party of British Columbia in convention assembled declares that it favors the principle that the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia shall be free to adopt, amend or defeat any measure or proposal submitted to it without thereby necessarily expressing lack of confidence in the government of the day, which should be defeated only by the passing of a direct vote of non-confidence.

Up to this time the defeat of an important government measure has been regarded as tantamount to an expression of lack of confidence in the government whose resignation it would involve. For that reason government supporters out of a sense of loyalty often failed to criticize or vote against measures with which they have not been in agreement. Under the proposed new rule government supporters may criticize or vote against government bills if they do not approve of them to the point of defeating them without forcing the government's retirement. The government must be defeated in a direct vote prescribing want of confidence in it before it will be expected to resign. Hence, administration measures in the future will receive much more intensive consideration from all quarters than they have received up to this time, and the function formerly reserved to the official opposition will be distributed generally over the House.

ROTARY IN GERMANY

Mr. John Nelson, president of Rotary International and formerly of Victoria, was recently in Germany and while there he was afforded an opportunity to discuss with Rotarians the situation of Rotary in that area—a situation which he properly regards as one of interest to members of the organization throughout the world.

It appears that representatives of the Hitler party in some sections of Germany had considerable difficulty for a time in reconciling Rotary principles with what they regarded as governmental policy and, in the situation which temporarily followed, some Jewish Rotarians terminated their membership under varying conditions. Subsequently, however, Mr. Nelson explains, opportunity was found to discuss the matter more fully and to explain the real character of Rotary to those in posts of high responsibility in Germany. A satisfactory understanding seems to have been reached and the difficulties which were bothering the international officials practically overcome. Addressing the Rotary Club of Berlin, Mr. Nelson said in part:

Europe is composed of many peoples, and the events of the last two decades have emphasized rather than composed the divisions between them. It is noteworthy that this has not prevented Rotarians from all these countries from conferring together for the general good. This is the genius of Rotary. As men come to understand and to practice Rotary principles, they find in them one of the most effective media in existence for reconciling those antagonisms, which have so often in the past disturbed and still threaten the peace of the world.

Rotary began as an individual relationship. In a sense it is now and always will be an individual relationship. It was born in the loneliness of a handful of men in a great city, and in the instinct to share one another's problems and hopes. Out of their contacts in unselfish service to one another and to others a mutual confidence was born.

It will be recalled that in the early days of Mussolini's dictatorship the path of Rotary in Italy was strewn with various inhibitions. But as the Fascist leader tempered his belligerency with a broader conception of public rights, Rotary recovered from its temporary set-back and is now thriving in that country. It is not surprising, of course, that Hitlerism should look askance at Rotary; but the Rotarians of Germany no doubt realize that long after the present demagogic regime has passed into history, Rotary will still be flourishing in Germany as in other countries.

The only certain thing about any future war, no matter when it comes, is that it will be a war of munitions and not armies, nor even fleets, which, to my mind, are doomed as fighting weapons.—Earl of Halsbury, K.C., writing in The London Sunday Times.

This distinguished jurist alludes specifically to the terrible potentialities of the munitions which would be employed in the event of another major war breaking out. He sees a war with a general staff of chemists, a war that will be made on entire populations, not upon armies in uniform. Each combatant would make a dead set on munition factories, chemical plants, which, of course, would involve destruction of civilian men, women and children. Lord Halsbury says in part:

Visualize for a moment the vulnerability of London. Consider a rectangle extending from Tottenham on the north to Wimbledon in the south and from Richmond on the west to Barking Creek on the east.

Assuming the ideal condition of every molecule of gas being put in precisely the position the attacking force desired only forty tons of gas would be necessary to place the whole of that rectangular area under a lethal atmosphere to a depth of thirty feet.

Modern bombers carry several tons. So do commercial aircraft, which could be converted at the shortest notice into military machines.

It is a matter of simple arithmetic to ascertain how many enemy aircraft would be needed to obliterate the whole of London and its population.

There is nothing fantastic in the unpleasant verbal picture which Lord Halsbury draws. Only the other day a dispatch from Paris announced that a new poison gas had been discovered which is described as the most destructive the world has ever heard of. It is said that no gas mask invented to date would be of any use, for even if not breathed a touch of it destroys the human body. We may be sure that France has no monopoly on this or any other of the array of diabolical contrivances for the destruction of life and property.

The observations of Lord Halsbury, however, should be pondered by those who cling to the big navy idea.

NEW YORK'S ELECTION

The voters of New York City will go to the polls to-morrow to choose their mayor for the next term. There are four candidates in the field but only three are considered to have a chance of winning. These are Mayor John Patrick O'Brien, Tammany's incumbent; Joseph V. McKee, "Recovery Party"; and Fiorello LaGuardia, "Fusionist." O'Brien represents old-line Tammany Hall, McKee another section of the Democratic party, while LaGuardia stands for the abolition of Tammany. Both LaGuardia and McKee denounce "boss rule" which they blame for bringing the city of New York close to bankruptcy, but each accuses the other of being "bossed."

In the last two weeks the campaign has been intensively developed and special interest has been imparted to the contest by the straw vote which The Literary Digest has been conducting. Of 545,000 ballots returned to November 4, LaGuardia is credited with 261,517. McKee 207,169, O'Brien 60,129, and Solomon 13,391. This vote has been running since October 14 and the percentage cast in favor of LaGuardia is practically the same in the fourth return as it was in the first. McKee increased from thirty-three to thirty-eight per cent, and O'Brien dropped from sixteen to eleven per cent.

Straw votes, of course, elect no candidates. But the various tests made by The Digest in recent years have been uncannily accurate. Its poll on the wet and dry issue showed a majority of 75.67 per cent for the wets and the official vote turned out to be a 75.24 per cent majority for the wets, a difference of .43 per cent. It will be interesting to see whether after the ballots have been counted in New York to-morrow night Mr. LaGuardia retains the paper majority noted above.

BUTTER UP—REFUSES TO DOWN

An item of news tells us that snowfall and general adverse conditions on the prairies have had their effect on the production of butter with the result that the wholesale price went up a cent a pound last Friday.

Market quotations confirm the news. For the best butter the wholesale price went to twenty-four cents a pound. This is approximately sixteen cents a pound less than the dairymen got for butter in 1930.

In 1930, we recall that political speakers went into the highways and byways of the Dominion telling the people that the dairy industry was being absolutely ruined because butter from the Antipodean Dominions was coming into this country by paying a paltry one-cent duty. The fact that Canada was not producing sufficient to satisfy an annual per capita consumption of twenty-nine pounds, of course, was not taken into consideration by the politicians who were so concerned about the well being of the dairymen.

But if the Canadian dairymen who were getting between thirty-seven and forty cents a pound for their butter in 1930 were on the edge of ruin, what is their lot at this stage when they are getting at the most twenty-four cents a pound? And they are getting this price when the outside product is coming in under a five-cent duty, but which is conspicuous by its virtual absence.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE WHEAT AGREEMENT
The Winnipeg Free Press

It is by now a hardly challenged fact that the wheat restriction scheme was originated by the United States administration and was put over at London by a mixed procedure of wheedling and threats, the sole purpose being to help out a domestic policy designed to meet a local condition which had been created by the nationalistic tariff policies of the United States. The remarkable thing about the development is that all the representatives of the other wheat-growing countries of the world permitted themselves to be bullied and browbeaten at London by Mr. Murphy and his aides. After the negotiations had failed, owing to the resistance of Argentina and Australia—Canada seems to have been remarkably complaisant throughout the proceedings—they were revived at American insistence and the deal was jammed through in order that the plan of putting the internal economy of the United States on a nationalistic basis, to the injury of the world, might be more effectively carried through.

FOREIGNERS IN CUBA
The Chicago News

It is dangerous to leave Americans and other foreigners unprotected in Cuba while the government rests in such weak hands. Under the Platt amendment and the Monroe doctrine the United States is as much responsible for the safety of British, French or other nationals on the island as for the safety of its own citizens. The sensible course seems to be to evacuate all foreigners until law and order are restored. Business being virtually paralyzed, there is little reason for most foreigners to remain. Certainly there is no excuse for tourists to hover around in quest of excitement. Foreigners whose affairs required them to remain could be under the direct protection of consular authorities and in readiness to board a warship if conditions grew sufficiently alarming. A timely move in this direction might well spare Washington the unpleasantness of landing troops or taking over Cuban affairs.

POLLUTION

SINCE THE Radio Commission took hold of broadcasting in Canada, I observe with alarm that this country is developing the same radio technique as its big neighbor. It is a new thing, this radio voice, and apparently very catching. Anyone who speaks frequently on the radio seems to acquire it—a fast, monotonous, inhuman tone, like a machine. All the radio announcers have it, and now I note that Dr. Lytle Telford, of the C.C.F., who may have been a good speaker once, has become, by long radio practice, nothing but a mechanical producer of sound.

Between these radio voices and a good speaker like Mr. Gerry McGee, for instance, there is a world of difference. The one is human, punctuated by natural pauses as the speaker tries to find a word, now high, now low, emphatic or casual. But your radio voice sweeps smoothly along at an even speed like a high-powered car. It is sleek. It is insinuating. It is servile. And essentially it is not human.

Why, they are even training our young men and women in Canada to croon for the radio commission like that ghastly race of crooners in the U.S.A. The other night a Toronto prodigy of fifteen was introduced and I expected to hear a new Alibi. Instead, she blared forth one of those whining, sobbing wailings that have polluted the air of the United States for years. Apparently no attempt is made to develop something Canadian, something different which would be valuable and refreshing even if it weren't quite as clever as the American imitations.

IMITATION

WE ARE becoming a race of imitators in this country. And the worst of it is that we always imitate the worst features of other civilizations. We imitate in Victoria the worst English accent and the most shallow aspects of English character. We bring from the United States the jam singing, the crooning, the wisecracking and the cheap, cynical attitude of the large cities.

That is commonly supposed to be representative of American life, and so wonder it disgusts a lot of decent people. We never seem to bring over here that other and greater side of American life which never finds its way into the magazines or the radio. We never hear of the leisurely, kindly and dignified life of the New England States, where nobody would invite Willie Winchell to dinner. We bring the staid, dingy, brown of Broadway into our pure Canadian ether, but we never imitate their worthwhile things, like the fish chowder they make at Marblehead and the brown bread of Boston and the fried chicken of Virginia and the exquisite aroma of my friend Ed Fulton's great farmhouse kitchen just outside Lexington. A danger here is that we shall collect the worst and all of foreign cultures, combine them and call that Canada.

TO BED

WHILE THE election raged and civilization trembled in the balance, we have been spending our time usefully out here putting the garden to bed and tucking it in for the winter. And like the little boy next door, the garden does not go meekly to bed. The more we tuck it in the more it breaks out again, waving wild arms above its blankets, scattering leaves in every direction, trying to steal just another hour before the long sleep.

Mostly it is the fault of the oak leaves and the wet wind. Booncom friends of the garden, they conspire together to keep it up just a little longer. No sooner have we gathered the leaves up in neat bundles and swept the garden clean, than the wet wind laughs over the brow of the hill.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"Well, Gus, I guess we'll soon be talking about the good old days before repeal."

give a mischievous puff and then a new blizzard comes down again, blotting out all our work. There seems to be no end to them, and our job is about as hopeful as sweeping back a tide which rolls in from the oak woods, laps at the bottom of the big rocks, eddies into every nook and corner and then pours back again like a trickle of molten bronze.

QUALITY

BUT MARK you, there is something to oak leaves that you won't find in any other kind. No other leaf so crisp, so tough and friendly, none that crackle so as you walk through them, none that can lie out in a ditch all winter and dance forth in the spring over the new-plowed earth, as fresh and jolly as ever. But they are a little annoying at times, after you have got the garden all nicely tucked in, and a new shower of them comes down in the night, or a new tide of them rolls in from the woods, and you have to start all over again. It will probably be weeks, long after the new government has got into office, before we have finally combed all the leaves out of the garden's tangled hair, smoothed down the blankets, and got it really sound asleep for the winter.

And you know, of course, if you are a gardener, that this is only the beginning of the job. Once the garden is safely asleep, you can go ahead with the new projects that you could not undertake while that restless fellow was surging up and growing all about you.

That is the best of this climate—while gardeners in other places are sitting about the fire to read books on horticulture, the Victorian can be out doing the heaviest and best gardening of the whole year. Any gentleman can play at gardening in the summer, water his pansies and pull a few weeds. The real gardener starts to work now, when the garden has been safely put to bed and tucked in for the winter.

FABULOUS

MR. GEORGE ARLES, the distinguished actor, has announced in Hollywood that the fabulous salaries of movie stars aren't fabulous enough, that if they make millions for the producers, they should be paid more, since it is they and not the producers who do the work.

But why single out the movies for this completely just provision? The movie actors are pretty lucky to get as big a share of the profits as they do. The rule all over the world is that the man who does the work shall get the least of the income, and the man who does nothing at all shall get most of it. Under a just system, of course, a man's income would depend on the value of his work to the community, which case many movie actors and actresses would not only fail to draw any salary, but would be in debt to the public, and many a bricklayer would receive more than many a statesman.

Things are not worked out that basis, nor on the basis of what people require; for the more you require the more you get, until the largest incomes in the world are paid to those who need no income at all, having plenty already.

This system, by a grim jest, has become known as the survival of the fittest, whereas it is clear that the un-fittest usually survive and the fittest often get it in the neck. So, unless you don't pay you most for contributing something useful to it, but for kidding it. That is why bank presidents, prize fighters and movie actresses get more than presidents or bricklayers. Still, it is better that movie actresses who make the pictures should get more than sick gentlemen sitting in New York and merely drawing dividends. If we could only extend the principle into other fields it would be useful.

LATE NEWS

HALLOWEEN, though a report of it has been delayed by the election, was a grisly business out our way. Look usually survive and the fittest often get it in the neck. So, unless you don't pay you most for contributing something useful to it, but for kidding it. That is why bank presidents, prize fighters and movie actresses get more than presidents or bricklayers. Still, it is better that movie actresses who make the pictures should get more than sick gentlemen sitting in New York and merely drawing dividends. If we could only extend the principle into other fields it would be useful.

Mr. Beak volunteered to let off the fireworks for the children next door and their friends, and was getting along quite well when the little boy decided that he could light firecrackers, too. He made the mistake of lighting a package that was lying on the ground just under, and to the rear of Mr. Beak, who leaped into the air with a mighty shout, and rubbed his legs vigorously. He said he was seriously burned in five places, but he recovered.

His trousers, however, were badly singed, as was Mr. Beak, and he said they were almost his best trousers, too. Also, he almost committed suicide by aiming a skyrocket in the wrong direction. It caught him squarely in the middle and he seemed to think for a moment that he was mortally wounded. The children, imagine that Mr. Beak had done all this on purpose, just to amuse them, thought he was a fine fellow. Mr. Beak went home, still rubbing his trousers.

The next divinity was designed to scare Mr. Pudbury into unconsciousness. They put their monstrous jack-o'-lantern on a fence post and hid behind some bushes, and when Mr. Pudbury came along they all shouted "Boo!", together in a mighty voice. Strangely enough, Mr. Pudbury didn't become unconscious. He just walked on. Mr. Pudbury is no spook.

REVOLTING
BUT THEY FIXED Mrs. Pudbury. This was a well-laid plot, prepared a day ahead, and I think there must have been an adult mind behind it. They managed to surprise poor old Hannibal, the tortoise, taking his last sun bath of the season by the side of the pond. They put him in a cardboard box and did it up nicely in tissue paper. They sneaked up to Mrs. Pudbury's door, left the box on the doorstep and rang the bell. Then they hid behind a tree and waited. When Mrs. Pudbury opened the box and beheld the hideous form of poor Hannibal emerging from a mass of white tissue paper, she emitted a piercing shriek and dropped him. The conspirators couldn't control their emotion and emitted a piercing laugh. And when Mrs. Pudbury slammed the door, calling them a lot of cheeky little brats, whose parents were no better, they sneaked up to the porch and rescued poor Hannibal and brought him back to his pond. Every one agreed that it was a most successful Halloween's party; except Mr. Beak, who discovered by the next morning's light that his trousers were almost ruined.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
November 6, 1908

(From The Times Files)

The school returns for the month of October were completed this afternoon and show a gratifying condition in the attendance at the public schools. There were 2,927 pupils on the roll, 1,423 boys and 1,504 girls. The average attendance was 91.22 per cent of the enrollment, which is considered very satisfactory.

A resolution of thanks from the people of Fernie to the people of Victoria, forwarded by R. R. Webb, secretary of the Fernie Citizens' relief committee, to Fred Elworthy, secretary of the board of trade, was read at the meeting of the council of the board this morning.

When the local soccer team enters the field to-morrow afternoon to compete against Nanaimo at Oak Bay the players will find themselves up against the strongest eleven the local city can send down to Victoria. The Nanaimo team has been down to steady season training for several weeks, and is reported to be in the pink of condition.

Nanaimo herring fishermen are preparing for the opening of the season there. The industry has come to be looked upon as one of the important features of the city's industrial life. The herring season there fills the harbor with boats actively engaged in the gathering in of the harvest of the sea.

Albany Ritchie, who is spending a few weeks with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Flumerfelt, of Pemberton Road, will give a recital at the Victoria Theatre on Saturday next, November 14, under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Society. Mr. Ritchie has just returned from New York, after having signed a contract for five years' concert tour engagement which will necessitate his leaving Victoria during December.

MR. PIERCE'S THANKS
To the Editor:—May I be permitted through your columns to express my thanks to all those who in any way assisted in putting the C.C.F. on the map in British last Thursday?

To my campaign manager and his assistant who gave their entire time freely in my behalf; to all the workers who showed their devotion to the cause by turning out in all kinds of weather to canvass and distribute literature; to the twelve hundred voters who registered their approval of the C.C.F. policies; and, finally, to your widow and children would ordinarily receive from their insurance money through the very liberal provisions of the

You can double the Income

Imperial Double Income Policy

THIS doubled income would continue from the date of your death until your youngest child became 21 years of age. Then the full face value of the Policy would be paid to your heirs in cash.

If an ordinary policy for say $10,000 became a claim the income from the money, if invested at even 6%, would be only $600 a year. Under a $10,000 Double Income Policy, however, the Imperial Life would guarantee to pay $1,200 a year and this income would be paid until your youngest child became of age, and then the full $10,000 would be paid in cash.

If you survive the policy it will provide a very welcome cash fund or a desirable income for your own later years.

If you have young children you cannot do better for them or for yourself than to look into this very unusual type of policy without delay.

STORED WHEAT HAS INCREASE

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Canadian wheat in store for the week ended October 27 increased by 4,261,654 bushels as compared with the previous week. It was reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The visible supply of wheat was reported at 249,502,238 bushels compared with a revised figure of 245,240,584 bushels for the previous week and 239,434,997 bushels for the corresponding week in 1932. The excess of 1933 visible supplies over those of comparable dates in 1932 has been gradually narrowing during the past few months and is now only about 10-000,000 bushels.

Marketings of wheat in the three prairie provinces up to October 20, 1933, as compared with the same period in 1932 were as follows, figures within brackets being those for 1932:
Manitoba 20,024,049 (23,694,731) bushels; Saskatchewan 59,235,523 (110-788,509) bushels; Alberta 39,075,961
(62,894,870) bushels.

During the week ending October 27, 1933, the export clearances amounted to 4,037,593 bushels compared with 5,837,008 bushels for the previous week, a decrease of 1,799,415 bushels.
During the corresponding week in 1932, 5,279,967 bushels were cleared for overseas ports.

Wheat marketings in the Prairie Provinces for the week ending October 30 amounted to 10,420,017 bushels, a decline of 3,689,466 bushels were marketed. During the same week in 1932, 17,008,586 bushels were reported.
For the twelve weeks ending October 30, 1933, and October 21, 1932, 118,335,982 bushels and 199,358,110 bushels, respectively, were received from the farms.

By provinces the receipts were as follows: Manitoba 593,234 bushels;
Saskatchewan 5,281,549 bushels; Alberta 4,545,248 bushels.

FIVE YEARS FOR KIDNAP THREAT

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—In the first prosecution here under the United States abduction law, a small, gray-haired woman was under sentence today of five years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Jennie Barrett, fifty-two, pleaded guilty Saturday to writing a $20,000 extortion letter to D. J. Will, Oakland businessman, in whose home she was employed as a maid. The letter threatened kidnapping of Will's nine-year-old daughter, Mary.

SILVER TO COME BACK, SAYS PRIEST

Detroit, Nov. 6.—Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, Canadian pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower here, predicted in a speech Sunday President Roosevelt "is about to monetize silver."

Regarding the present monetary standard, the priest said: "We must replace it with one that is honest, sound and adequate for the needs of our 120,000,000 citizens."

"Sooner than you suspect," he continued, "silver will be monetized.
Government certificates, soundly and solidly backed by silver that has been restored to its normal and natural value in relation to gold will begin to pass from hand to hand of a citizenry liberated from the tyranny of the international bankers, liberated from the fear created by a famine of money."

FAIR VISITOR IS GIVEN FARM

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Leticia C. McDonald, fifty-five, farmer and implement dealer from Floydada, Tex., was the 22,000-000th visitor to the Chicago Fair yesterday and thereby annexed himself another farm.

In addition to having special honors heaped on him as a guest of the Exposition, McDonald received as a prize a forty-acre farm in Michigan awarded by the Menominee (Mich.) Abstract and Land Company. Immediately Mc-Donald began making plans to use the new farm as a summer home.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THE BARE HOUSE

When I go into a house that is bare,
A staring window, a table, a chair,
With nothing to comfort, allure or charm,
No lower on the sill, no earth-flames warm,
I know the dweller within those walls
Hears ever a voice in the distance that calls.
I know he would never regret or delay
If a summons should come that would take him away
From the dull reproach of that naked place
Which he has not sought to lend beauty or grace.
That house, although he has lived
there for years,
Is alien still to his hopes and his fears,
And so, when I look at a life, as well,
That adds nothing of beauty or joy, to swell
The stream of good in the world about,
I know that with never a pang or a doubt
The tenant there will be glad to release
To answer far voices whose calls never cease.

Canadian Book Week Reveals Quality and Range of Authors

Long List of New Publications of Merit Belies George Bernard Shaw's Belittling
of Canadian Literature

"If I go to outlandish and strange places like Canada, I shall become a victim of intellectual starvation," George Bernard Shaw said to members of the Canadian Authors' Association when they visited him during their tour in England during the last summer.

"Canadian authors," he asked when they were introduced, "I never knew there were any. I was not aware that there was anything you could call a Canadian literature."

Enlightening Mr. Shaw and also any Canadians who might not know, this is being set aside as Canadian Book Week. It is sponsored originally by the Canadian Authors' Association, but has now been accepted as a national institution by cultural institutions of the country as well as by the book trade.

Here are some of the outstanding new books from Canadian publishers which show the range and variety of the work of Canadian authors this year:

"Number 4 Canadian Hospital," containing the letters, interesting and readable commentaries of a cultured and scientifically trained observer—written by Professor J. J. Mackenzie of the University of Toronto during the Great War.

ENTERS UNEXPLORED FIELD

"John Danglefield's Strange Resemblance" is the supreme story of Anna Durie, in which the entire hitherto unexplored field, as fore-shadowed in the opening chapter, the climax of expectancy is reached when John revisits his native Canada. Comedy and satire are not wanting, and the every-day charm of any easygoing upper-class at the beginning of the century in Toronto is vividly touched on. The choice of a wholly modern style of narration places this book in the front rank of English-Canadian fiction.

"Honest John Oliver," the life story of former Premier of British Columbia by James Morton.

"Canada Doctor," a novel based on the work of Dr. W. M. Locke of Williamsburg, Ont., who cures rheumatism by manipulation of the foot muscles and bones. It is written by Clay Perry and L. E. Peil.

"Precious Jeopardy," a Christmas story, written by Lloyd C. Douglas, author of the best sellers, "Forgive Us Our Trespasses" and "Magnificent Obsession."

NANAIMO POET'S WORK

"A Dryad in Nanaimo," by Audrey Alexandra Brown of Nanaimo, one of the most outstanding books of poems written anywhere in recent years.

"Western Shores," by J. H. Hamilton, narratives of the Pacific Coast.

"Central Banking in Canada," by J. H. Creighton, M.A., published through the educational book department of Clarke and Stuart Co. Ltd.

"British Columbia," by Judge Howay, romance and history combined in an authoritative book.

"Poems" by members of the Vancouver Poetry Writers' Group.

"Shackling the Transgressor," the amazing revelations of Canadian penitentiary conditions, by Dr. O. C. J. Withrow.

JUDGE SPINKS' BOOK

"Tales of British Columbia Frontier," by William Ward Spinks, illustrated by Edith MacLaren.

"Toronto During the French Regime," by Percy Robinson. This tells of the history of the Toronto district from 1615 to 1793 and has much new matter.

"The Life of Robert Baldwin," by Prof. G. E. Wilson.

"The Indian Tribes of Canada," by Eileen Jones.

"The Out-of-doors," by E. Chesley Allen.

"Bonds of the Wilderness," by Zella Manning (animal stories from Kipling, Hornaday, Steffanson, Stockton, Thompson, Seton, Courtney Riley Cooper, etc.).

"The Old Province of Quebec," by Prof. Alfred Burt (former history head of University of Alberta).

"The Land of Peas and Famine," by Helge Ingstad (four years of trapping and adventure between Edmonton and Great Slave Lake).

"Old Indian Trails of the Canadian Rockies," by Mary T. S. Schaffer.

"Canadian Landscape Painters," by Albert H. Robson, who has for more than thirty years been associated with art development in Canada.

"Investment," by W. A. McKague (former editor, Monetary Times).

"Canadian Banking," by E. L. Stewart Patterson (a banker).

"Prayer of a Good Trouper," by Harry Amos (poetry).

"When the West Was Young," by John D. Higginbotham (who saw the prairies grow up).
"The Dove of El-Dejane," by Laura Goodman Salverson (serialised in MacLean's).
"The Brave Little People," by Dorothy Campbell (a Puckish little man shows children through the ant country).
"Highways to Health" (textbook on highways to health).
"Tracts for Difficult Times," by Prof. Edmund Oliver, Ph.D. (examination of the great documents of Christian literature from "The Revelations of St. John" to Nietzsche's "Christianity and the Social Crisis").

"BIG CANADIAN NOVEL" COMING
Thomas Allen, the Toronto publisher, leads off his Christmas list with what he calls "The Big Canadian Novel." It is written by Eibel Kirk Grayson of Moose Jaw, author of "Willow Smoke." It is an intimate and vivid portrayal of life in the atmosphere of a provincial college town, with scenes laid in Montreal and along the Gaspé coast.

Other new Allen books include: "Shoal Water," by George Chappell; "Inspector Frost in Crevaux Cove," by Dr. Maynard Smith; "The Long Quest," by Christine Parmenter; "The Trusty Knaves," by Eugene Manlove Rhodes; "Soldiers, What Next?" by Katharine Mayo; "Poems of Archibald MacLachlan," by Paul Hutchison; "Afridanger," by Denys Reitz, author of "Commando," a journal of the Boer War; "Last of the Romanoffs," by R. H. Bruce Lockhart; "Prometheus from St. Mark to Cabell," by Burton Rascoe (of Titans of Literature fame); "The Chinese Merry-go-round," by Ralph Townsend; "Church Union in Canada," by Rev. C. E. Silcock; "Stalin's Ladder," by Elias Toback; and "Life and Times of Marc Antony," by Arthur Weigall.

"Exploring With Bees," for boys and girls, contains some of the most exciting incidents from the explorer's "Jungle Days." "The Arctic Adventure" and "Galapagos," and is illustrated with actual photos.

Pastor Writes
Brochure on Christ's Continual Coming

"Christ's Continual Coming" is the title of a privately printed brochure by Rev. Dr. J. J. Ross, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, Winnipeg. Dr. Ross, who was at one time lecturer in New Testament Introduction and Analysis in the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago, has made a careful study of the Greek words in the New Testament which mean coming—viz. Parousia, Apokalupsis, Epiphania, Erchomai. Dr. Ross claims that no one but God knows the date of Christ's second coming in glory.

"Anyone," he says, "who tries to fix dates for the Second Advent is to be discredited at once as an authoritative student and teacher of prophetic Scripture."

His purpose in writing this little book is to show that there is a vast difference between the Second Advent and the Second Coming. "In the Second Coming Christ is on the way, hither, spiritually and through His people; in the Second Advent He will have personally, visibly, and actually arrived." The Resurrection of Christ was the commencement of the Second Coming, which is a process, a movement over an indefinite period of time, and in this era we are living to-day.

COLLECTION OF WAR RELICS

Returned Soldier Unable to Determine What Souvenir Is Interesting Display Advertises Armistice Ball

As the date of the Armistice eve ball, which is being held by the Amputations Association of the Great War, more fittingly known as "Fragments of France," draws near, more and more people are becoming interested in the varied display of war relics on exhibition at 608 Port Street, where the collection has been added to daily by interested citizens.

Dan Hull, who is in charge of the display, was puzzled yesterday when a lady brought into him a souvenir she received from her son in the flying corps and who was later killed. The lady is anxious to know what the souvenir is and Mr. Hull with all his knowledge is at a loss to inform her, but is endeavoring to oblige her by placing it in the window with a notice asking what it is. Probably someone connected with the flying corps will be able to enlighten her if they will view it in the window and Mr. Hull would appreciate anyone recognizing it letting him know.

CARTOONS LOANED

A group of Bairnsfather's war cartoons kindly loaned by J. Grimston are now on view. German bayonets found at the front by H. Davies, 3050 Jackson Street, have caused considerable comment, as have also a unique paper knife hammered from a piece of shrapnel by J. W. Thornber, 1931 Ash Street, and a German gas mask with British Wild Woodbine cigarettes in the cover as originally found by Lt.-Col. de Salla.

Miss Edith Caven's grave in Belgium is shown in a photograph along with the memorial erected to her memory in Brussels. Another photograph shows the place where the Armistice was signed.

"NINE OLD MEN" TO RULE ON NRA

Average Age of Supreme Court Justices of United States Is 68

Washington, Nov. 6.—As the Supreme Court convenes again, to sit until May or June, attention is focusing on the "nine old men" who are almost certain to have to make vital decisions on the New Deal social legislation.

Dean now of the court, the liberal Justice Brandeis is within a month of his seventy-seventh birthday on November 13. By the way, Princeton University Press will celebrate the day by publishing a new book which will show how many of Justice Brandeis's dissenting opinions have won acceptance in Congress and in the Supreme Court itself.

Ages of the other justices are: Hughes, seventy-one; Van Devanter, seventy-four; McReynolds, seventy-one; Sutherland, seventy-one; Butler, sixty-seven; Stone, sixty-one; Roberts, fifty-eight; and Cardozo, sixty-three.

That's a total of 613 years of accumulated wisdom (or prejudice, according to your own point of view) and sets definitely the average age of the "nine old men" at sixty-eight. COURT IS NOT ALMIGHTY

Consideration already is being given here to what would happen if the Supreme Court went the limit and threw out all the New Deal legislation, lock, stock, and barrel, as unconstitutional.

There would be undoubted inconvenience and confusion, but Congress would not be as helpless as many readily believe. Faced by such a situation before, the elasticity of our "rigid constitution" met the test.

It was done by Congress changing the number of members of the court. There have been, at various times, ten, six, seven and nine members. The last change was made in Grant's administration in 1869, when the members were added, and Grant saw to it that the proper two were added to get the result he wanted.

So don't be too concerned about the possibility of the Supreme Court upsetting the New Deal applicat.

Even venerable Justice Holmes once declared, "I do not think the United States would come to an end if we lost our power to declare an act of Congress void."

Notes From University of British Columbia

Special to The Times

University of B.C., Point Grey, Nov. 6.—Adelard from Texas Guinan's name that it was the officials of U.B.C. who barred her attending a University Pop Club. Guinan has been published in the Vancouver papers in their usual weekly effort to stir up "college spirit" through weekly entertainment features in the variety auditorium. The Pop Club hit upon the great idea of having the Night Club Queen and some of her "gals" come up and see the boys sometime, but Texas Guinan said she had to commence making at 12:45 o'clock in the afternoon her appearances at the Beacon Theatre, and since the meetings are to be held at noon, she acceptance of the invitation was an impossibility.

The Ubyssey, student publication, is showing plenty of fight. After taking the cudgels against fundamentalism and the University Officers' Training Corps, the main attraction of which, at least according to several students, is that one gets target practice and also gets out of paying a poll tax, the weekly newspaper yesterday printed an editorial gently rapping the professors. It is too soon yet to detect the action.

"Many professors," it says, "are obsessed by the idea that their own lectures are a very necessary adjunct of university education. They imagine that the only way for students to obtain credits is by absorbing erudite pearls of wisdom from professorial lips. It is about time that someone put them, wags to themselves. The average of lectures on this campus is deplorably dull. One need only look upon the row upon row of nodding heads to realize the faculty of it all. Why on earth should intelligent students sit for interminable hours in an atmosphere of diluted carbon monoxide in order to hear a torrent of old truisms that they can pick up in any month-eaten text-book? There are, of course, many exceptions. The general fact remains, however, that most of the lectures are a waste of time, energy and brains. If the professor cannot arouse a spark of interest in his class, he might as well dismiss the whole lot, and let them browse in the stacks or magazine room, where some definite information can be gleaned."

A tentative appraisal of campus opinion, among students and faculty both, seems to show that a more sympathetic deal for the university will come as a result of the Liberal victory at the polls. What with Dr. O. M. Weir, head of the Department of Education, elected at the top of the poll in Point Grey and apparently slated for the Ministry of Education, and what with the generally recognized sympathy of Mr. Pattullo and a number of his leading followers toward the university, it is felt the Liberal victory will mean something.

"I am wearing shorts because dad would not come across with a new dress," a co-ed who turned up at the University Badminton Club the other night, is reported to have said. She plays badminton well and also looks well playing badminton in shorts, according to student informants.

"The future of nationalism is a row of question marks, but nationalism will not be destroyed—instead it may destroy us," said Professor F. H. Howard in a talk given during the week in Aggie 100. "Hitler has deliberately used nationalism in his campaign, but this very tool is likely to prove a force beyond his control," he added.

It has been officially announced that the University Musical Society will present "The Mikado" of Gilbert and Sullivan this year. The ambitious performance is scheduled for February 14, 15, 16 and 17, and practices are already in full swing.

Aged Farmer Is Burned to Death

Tillsonburg, Ont., Nov. 6.—Returning to the house yesterday after finishing the chores at the barn, Louis Dingman, who farms about five miles east of Tillsonburg, found his father, Frank Dingman, seventy-seven, burned to death in his armchair and the house in flames.

He managed to pick up the body and carry it outside and in doing so suffered severe burns to his hands and arms. With the assistance of his mother and his wife, Dingman fought the blaze and succeeded in saving the residence.

The elder Dingman suffered a stroke three years ago and kept a blanket wrapped around his legs. Apparently he had been smoking when the blanket took fire.

... to give full power in a cold motor

WHAT a difference! The old way of starting off on winter mornings with the choke 'way out, the engine jerking and back-firing, refusing to pull.

And Super Shell gives you all these things, too:

- ... A top anti-knock rating to keep your car running quietly under extreme conditions.
- ... Complete freedom from wasteful "gassy" parts and sluggish "ends."
- ... Better mileage, its users say, than from other gasolines.
- ... The maximum of quick starting, of power; speed and pick-up; real premium performance.

The new way—with Thermalized Super Shell—a smooth summer-like flow of power in a fraction of the usual time. That's what a Thermalized fuel does for you.

Of course you save gasoline, as much as half the gasoline you've been wasting with the choke. And you save yourself annoyance, waste, wear. All because Shell found the way to Thermalize Super Shell gasoline ... to make it give full power in a cold motor.

Test it in your car

Start on Thermalized Super Shell. Notice how much quicker you can release the choke; how soon you are away, running smoothly.

Here's far more than a "quick-starting" gasoline, far more than a climatically adjusted fuel. It is Thermalized to make a cold motor really go to work!

★ THERMALIZED: The name given Shell's combination of processes by which gasoline is made to deliver full power in a cold engine. Originally produced under terrific heat, Super Shell is redistilled, made more concentrated. And every gallon for your community is Thermalized for local temperatures.

Only Super Shell is thermalized!

Your Baby and Mine

BY MYRTLE NEVER ELDERD

GIVE CHILD AS MUCH FREEDOM OF ACTION AS POSSIBLE

Knowing children and what, in most cases, causes their actions, one is compelled to read between the lines of some letters to find what is not there. The following is a case in point. There is nothing obviously wrong, but the results are too poor, so there must be something.

INDULGES IN TANTRUMS
"I would appreciate your help with my only child, a boy of three," Mrs. J. E. B. writes. "For the last two months he has been having tantrums when denied anything. I have always thought before that it was right for him to say 'No' and stick to it. Now he wants a cookie, or an apple, or to go barefooted about every half-hour, and if I don't agree he has a temper tantrum. I leave him and ignore him, but he kicks and screams. When he gets through he begins where he left off. He asks, 'Why not?' and 'What for?' until I nearly lose my mind. I explain, but it is the same thing over again."

"He doesn't seem to be able to entertain himself any more. He has a truck, sandpile, little autos, airplanes, etc. He has a nice little boy of his own age to play with, but without reason he often tells him to go home. His diet and weight are right. He has a noon nap and goes to bed at 7.30. Give me some help, please."

BE REASONABLE

In the first place, the boy is three years old and is right in that stage of rebellion against authority which is called the negativistic period. He is an only child, therefore the centre of unusual attention, and probably too much of it. He is a child subjected to them daily. When he finds you inflexible, his response is a temper tantrum. I would think ten times before saying "No" to any reasonable request. Offer him a cookie and an apple at a stated period, letting him look forward to it. Give him some more active amusements, such as a swing, something to climb on, some throwing toys. Let him help you as much as possible, thus directing his consuming energy into helpful and harmless channels.

Let him do as much for himself as he can, helping to dress, feed, bathe himself, brush his teeth, comb his hair, go to the toilet alone. Give him choices of conduct instead of flatly saying "No" and sticking to it. You need to change, too, before you can expect much change in the child. Won't you send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my leaflet, "Analysis of Obedience and Punishment"? You will find it very helpful.

To-morrow: "Let Baby Dictate How Much He Wants to Eat."

Mr. and Mrs. William Crossman, 454 Griffith Street, have received word of the birth of a son on October 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crossman, West Shore Extension, Napier, New Zealand. The baby's name is Robert William. Mr. Crossman formerly resided in Victoria.

REFUSED TO BE STAMPEDED

Hugh Savage, Victor in Cowichan-Newcastle, Offered Thanks to Electors

Hugh Savage, publisher of the Cowichan Leader, who won the Cowichan-Newcastle seat in the provincial election last Thursday as an Independent standing on the four absolutes of the Oxford Group, has issued the following statement of thanks to the electors of his riding:

"You have exercised your franchise as free citizens of Canada, and I have to thank you heartily for the confidence you have reposed in me."

"The issues in this election have been two-fold. The main one whether our social and political system, built up by long years of experience and earnest endeavor, must be overthrown to make way for a chemical experiment based on the theory that we have never been a free people allowed to govern ourselves. It is our heritage to have been a free people. You have rightly refused to be stamped into the fold of a party that has merely enumerated a list of what we are all aware, but have offered no solution for healing; a party that has made no intelligent effort to diagnose these ills; a party that, on its own showing, is purely materialistic, devoid of the moral ethics that alone make the individual life worth living, and a nation respected. In this crude attempt to upset the established order."

GRANDMA RUNS AWAY ON GRAF

Whether you voted for me, or whether you did not, please remember that I now represent each and all of you, not a party, special interest or gang. I personally asked no man or woman to vote for me. I do not and shall not ask you how you voted.

"The times are most serious. You have chosen me to lead. You, each of you, must follow. You must co-operate heartily and wholeheartedly with me if we are to prove to the world that we are worthy to be British Columbians."

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

A Man With a Thousand Masks

By Augustus Muir

A pageboy approached with a message scribbled on a piece of paper. Laying down his book, the old man peered at it through his thick glasses, and nodded.

As he reached out for his ebony stick Gilmour could not help getting a glimpse of the writing on the paper. It was a telephone number, and the old man departed with his slow shuffling walk, evidently with the object of putting through a call.

The phone number stuck in Gilmour's mind—Mayfair 979. Where had he seen it before? A few minutes later, thinking brought him the answer. While he spoke with Elizabeth Marlowe in her room in Sir Richard Templeton's suite he had almost unconsciously seen a note written hastily on a slip, obviously as a memo for Sir Richard Templeton on his return.

CHAPTER XV

Alan remembered the words of the memorandum. They were: "Ring Mrs. Priddy; Mayfair 979."

The person Mr. Paul Steiner had gone to ring up was Mrs. Priddy, of 27 Chancery Square. It was a curious coincidence, at least; might it not be something very much more significant?

Hastily Alan Gilmour tumbled in his pocket-book for the not of Inspector Tripp's private address, which the detective had given him, and rang up the flat near the Houses of Parliament.

Tripp was out, but since the period when he answered the telephone described himself as his housekeeper, Gilmour dictated a brief message, telling of his contact with Mr. Paul Steiner and his rather unexpected outcome, adding that he would get in touch with the detective later on in the evening.

Every stranger coincidences happen in real life than in fiction, he told himself, and the fact that Mr. Steiner happened to be an acquaintance of Mrs. Priddy might be one of them. But somehow he thought that there was some stronger link in it than mere chance could have forged. Tripp would not have sent him the telephone number without good reason, and he walked back to the lounge with his interest in the matter considerably stimulated.

But though he waited for nearly an hour, the old American did not return, and Gilmour wondered if it would be advisable to ring up Tripp again. He went up to his bedroom for a pipe and tobacco, deciding to put through the call from the telephone instrument there. But upstairs a thing happened which drove both Inspector Tripp and Paul Steiner from his thoughts. Putting his hand into his pocket, the jacket he had on that day, he pulled out the letter Elizabeth Marlowe had asked him to dispatch for her.

He stared at it blankly. In the anxieties and venality that had been upon his talk with her in the afternoon, the letter had passed completely from his mind. His first impulse was to dash downstairs and ask the hotel office to find him a messenger to deliver it immediately. Then he remembered Elizabeth's request that it should not be sent off from the hotel—a request that he was tempted in the circumstances to ignore.

A moment later, however, he was pulling on a light overcoat and crushing a soft hat on his head. It was impossible to say how urgent the letter might have been, and he decided to deliver it himself and offer his apologies for the delay.

The address, he saw, was Number 13, Thames Wall, Bermondsey, and he instructed the driver of the taxicab to lose no time. His notions about the Bermondsey district had always been vague; that it was probably unimportant and lay south of the river, fully summed them up. But when his cab swept past the entrance to London Bridge Station, ran along Tooley Street and turned into a network of side-alleys, he began to realize that this particular part of Bermondsey, whatever the rest of it might be, was nothing more than a Thames-side slum. Public houses, the haunts of watermen and bargemen, were frequent, and strident-voiced women stood in doorways, quarrelling.

The taxi-driver pulled up beside some tall railings and pointed down a long passage that disappeared into darkness.

"That's your best way, sir. If you're in a hurry. Want me to wait, sir?"

"No, thanks," replied Gilmour, paying the man and hurrying along the flagged footway toward the water-side.

Thames Wall he found to be a narrow street with high, dark warehouses on one hand, and on the other a row of houses intersected by dismal alleys running off at right angles. In the light of a flickering lamp above a doorway he caught sight of the figures of two men in a doorway.

Here was his destination, a great, gloomy place wedged in between warehouses on the river side on the street. Then he saw that it was not a private house at all, but a hotel or superior lodging-house run in conjunction with the public house that occupied a large corner section of the ground floor.

The Heart's Desire was the name on the sign, and the doors were closed upon a stream of loafers and dock hands who moved slowly off into the dense warren of streets to the south.

Alan Gilmour went over to the doorway of the hotel, standing under the lamp, looked once more at Elizabeth Marlowe's letter.

"J. Brown, Esq., c/o Young, 13, Thames Wall, Bermondsey, S.E."

This was the place, sure enough, for on a small, unclean brass plate beside the door he caught the words, "Proprietor, T. Young." Why in the name of creation, he asked himself, was Elizabeth Marlowe writing to anyone who might be stopping at such a place?

But this was not a question he was in a position to answer. She had relied on him to dispatch the letter that afternoon; he had been blundering fool enough to let her down, and he must now make what reparation he could.

Twice he tapped at the rusty iron bell-pull beside the door before it was opened by a man who looked as if he might have been a bartender from the public house.

"There's a Mr. Brown staying here?" asked Gilmour.

The man had a sullen pugilistic face and heavy eyes, and he leered suspiciously at Gilmour out of the darkness in the passage.

"You want him?"

"Yes, I must see him personally. I've got a particular matter for him."

"Mebbe he's out," muttered the man, then gave a jerk of his head. "Better come in."

He closed and locked the door, and shuffled along the corridor. Through a partly-open window at the distant end Gilmour caught a sudden glimpse of the river. A big cargo boat was moored in the middle channel, and he could see ripples of light from her on the ruffled surface of the dark waters.

Opposite, on the north bank, a warehouse was ablaze with arc lamps, and there, the din of moving cranes could be faintly heard.

As he followed the man up the stairs, Gilmour saw that the building was a three-story structure, and a low pier ran out for a little way, a black, heavy mass rigid about the moving water. Up two flights of stairs they went, then the man paused.

"What's your name?"

"Gilmour—but that's of no importance. Mr. Brown will understand after I explain—I've got a letter here for him."

The man gave a grunt and knocked at the door.

"He's in all right," he muttered, pointing down to the slit of light on the door.

The murmur of voices in the room suddenly ceased. A chair was scraped back, the key was turned in the lock, and the door opened.

"Yes!" said a voice quickly.

The man who spoke was of medium height, with a narrow, square face and the narrow eyes of a European. Gilmour had an impression that he was partly Chinese, but could not be certain, for the features were in shadow.

"Are you Mr. Brown?" he asked.

"No, my name is Young. You wish to see Mr. Brown?"

"He spoke in a mellow voice, and though there was a polite smile on his face, his eyes were staring over Gilmour from head to foot.

"Yes."

"Might I be allowed to convey a message?" asked the man with elaborate courtesy. "Mr. Brown is engaged."

"I have a letter for him," said Gilmour, "from Miss Marlowe."

"Marlowe? I will see. He turned round to ask a question and as he did so the door began to swing open. He caught the handle quickly and pulled it toward him, but not before Alan Gilmour had a momentary glimpse of the room beyond.

Several people sat round a table—two or perhaps three men and, facing him, a woman.

A sudden single ran through his nerves. He had seen that face and those cold blue eyes before; yes, he had seen her that morning, crossing the pavement from her house at Carbery Square. It was the second time within two hours that he had come into contact with that friend of Sir Richard Templeton—known to London's West End as Mrs. Lydia Priddy.

CHAPTER XVI

Meantime, at the corner of a side street in Somers Town, a man stood smoking a cigarette. His clothes were shabby, and from below the peak of his dirty cloth cap he cast quick glances at the passersby. In the distance a church clock struck nine, and with a puff at the stub of his cigarette he tossed it away and began to move down the street with the shuffling gait of a loafer.

He seemed to know his way about for without hesitation he turned down a narrow passage on the left. At the distant end of it a lamp on an iron bracket cast a fitful light on the grimy-stained walls, but the middle section of the passage lay in deep gloom. Glancing up and down to make quite certain it was deserted, the man put his foot in a crevice and made a jump for the top of the wall.

Slithering over, he dropped into a dark, narrow courtyard beyond; and a couple of minutes later he was crouching on the roof of an ancient building, the square silhouette of the buildings at his side was sharply cut against the night sky. Through many lighted windows he caught glimpses of grim, unlovely interiors. An occasional burst of talk reached his ears, and now and then harsh laughter rang out with an ugly, dissonant note. Pausing only long enough to take his bearings, the man crawled forward along the roof toward the wall of the main building.

At last he found what he was looking for—an iron ladder that ran upwards to the roof. This he mounted with agility, and at the top hauled himself over the low parapet. Down below him lay the narrow street, with the naphtha-lamp of a hawk's barrow casting a lurid pool of light at one end.

Again the man stopped only long enough to take his bearings. The roof on his left sloped gently up to the ridge, and was broken at regular intervals by small, square skylights. When he passed the third group of chimneys he halted and looked down over the parapet for a landmark which he had previously noted on the opposite side of the street.

Uncle Wiggily And Bobbie Buzzer

(By HOWARD E. GARIS.)

Bobbie Ringtail was a little boy raccoon. He wore a fine coat of fur winter and summer, and his tail, which was also fur, was marked with stripes or rings around it, like some yellow cats. So that's why Bobbie's last name was Ringtail. He didn't mind wearing his fur coat in summer, for he played around the water so much that he often got wet and when he was wet he didn't feel the heat on his fur coat even on the hottest days.

The reason Bobbie played around puddles and pools of water so much was that he, like all raccoons, liked to wash all his food in water before he ate it. If you were to give Bobbie a slice of bread and butter he would first take it to a puddle of water and dip it in before he took a single bite.

Oh, Bobbie was a funny little raccoon boy, although neither he nor his father nor his mother nor his sister thought it funny to wash their food before eating. They always had done it as long as they could remember, so of course it was as natural to them as it is natural for you to wash your hands before you eat and clean your teeth after you finish.

One day Bobbie Ringtail said to his mother:

"I wish I had a buzzer."

"What's a buzzer?" asked Mrs. Ringtail, who was opening a can of corn for lunch. "Do you mean a front door bell? Or a door bell?"

"What's a buzzer?" asked Mrs. Ringtail, who was opening a can of corn for lunch. "Do you mean a front door bell? Or a door bell?"

"No, thank you, that isn't the kind of a buzzer I mean," said Bobbie. "I want a top that spins and buzzes."

MARRIED IN TOKIO

In the first wedding of an American ambassador's daughter that Tokio has seen in forty years, Miss Elsie S. Grew, twenty-one-year-old daughter of U.S. Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew, became the bride of Cecil B. Lyon, third secretary of the embassy. The bride couple are shown with Ambassador Grew after the ceremony.

Mrs. Bernard Shaw Is Happy "Second Fiddle"

Look just beyond George Bernard Shaw—as he ducks to avoid interviews, as he takes a brisk walk along his home-town streets—and you'll probably see Mrs. George Bernard Shaw.

Apparently you always have to look just beyond Shaw to see her!

By nature and by choice this little-known wife of the world's premier headliner in the background, an excellent foil for her husband, an excellent buffer against the unpleasantness of life.

Where you can spot Shaw instantly, anywhere, by his lean, tall, fidgety figure with his stock of white hair and flowing beard, you never could pick Mrs. Shaw from a group of middle-aged clubwomen or tourists.

She is of medium height, rather stout and placid looking, wears her very thick grey hair bobbed, has a calm, pleasant face, moves rather slowly, and has mild blue eyes that look through pince-nez glasses. She wears good clothes, but undistinguished ones and her shoes are invariably the low-heeled, health type. Her hair runs to untimely felts, usually dressed in pines and coats. She wears good clothes, but undistinguished ones and her shoes are invariably the low-heeled, health type. Her hair runs to untimely felts, usually dressed in pines and coats. She wears good clothes, but undistinguished ones and her shoes are invariably the low-heeled, health type. Her hair runs to untimely felts, usually dressed in pines and coats.

On one subject, however, they both agree thoroughly. That subject is that G. B. Shaw is the world's greatest man! In addition to reading all his manuscripts and criticizing them, Mrs. Shaw has kept for years a file of clippings about her husband. When you realize that every time the man opens his mouth it makes the front page, you can see what a stupendous task this would be.

To date, it is said that Mrs. Shaw's clippings include something from practically every country, civilized and barbaric on earth!

She has never given an interview, says she never will. She won't even answer requests verbally. She merely writes a polite but flat "No." And the only pictures of her that have ever been taken, have been caught—just beyond Shaw!

YEAST BREAD IS EASILY MADE THIS WAY

Breads made light by the use of yeast are on the whole more satisfactory than the so-called quick breads leavened by baking powder and soda. And while the average home-maker seems to feel that yeast breads are more trouble to make, this is a mistake, because the process is neither hard nor tedious.

When economy is an object, you can effect a worth-while saving by doing your own baking. After a little experience you will do it easily and with perfect results.

The flour used for bread-making is preferably wheat. This kind of flour contains more gluten than that made from winter wheat and therefore retains the gas which develops in the bread dough better than pastry flour made from winter wheat.

BREAD

Two cups scalded milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon lard, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cakes compressed yeast, 1-4 cup lukewarm water, 4 cups bread flour.

Put butter, lard, sugar and salt into large mixing bowl. Add scalded milk and lukewarm water. In the meantime soften yeast cakes in water which has been cooled and cooled to lukewarm temperature, adding 1 tablespoon sugar to water. When milk is lukewarm, add dissolved yeast cakes. Add 3 cups flour and beat until smooth. Add two more cups flour, cutting it in with a knife until thoroughly mixed. Add remaining flour slowly, using just enough to make the dough of such consistency that it can be kneaded without sticking to the board. Knead until the dough is smooth and springy.

Put into an oiled mixing bowl, cover with a clean cloth and large plate. Put in a warm place and leave it until it is double in bulk. It will take about one hour. Then cut through and through with a case knife and knead into a smooth ball. Let rise again to double its bulk. Make into two loaves and let these rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. Then reduce heat and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes.

WATCH TEMPERATURE

The temperature of the dough during rising should be carefully watched. Between seventy-five and eighty degrees F. should be maintained throughout the whole process.

After the dough has risen the first time to double its bulk it can be "cut down" and kept in the refrigerator for a day or longer. Remember that it will take the chilled dough longer to rise when made into loaves, so allow about two hours for this rising before baking.

NEW TABLE DECORATIONS

If you are going in for home entertaining plan your table decorations with an eye to individuality.

It is new these days to use mirrors to stimulate a pool and arrange little colored crystal figures around it as a centerpiece. You can get crystal animals in gaily colored for next to nothing. Or you can concentrate on crystal trees to hang over the sides and crystal water lilies to go on the surface of the mirror.

A new mirror has been made that has little shallow spaces on opposite sides which hold water and just the heads of a few flowers. A couple of orchids give this type of centerpiece a de luxe air, particularly if you use purple crystal dishes and goblets.

ON FLYING VISIT

The outstanding beauties in America grow older every year, of course. But their complexions do not, which proves that it is possible for a middle-aged woman to have skin as soft and lovely as that of a nineteen-year-old college girl.

There is no use in saying that it is inevitable that your skin will become dry and rough and wrinkled once you have passed the forty mark. Your skin at that age can be as smooth and beautiful if you will just take the time to give it a little deserved attention.

The time to begin is when you're young. Get into the habit of a daily routine and the chances are that you'll have no cause for worry later on. However, if you have neglected your skin, there still is time to do something about it.

Every woman over thirty needs a nourishing cream. Call it tissue cream or anything else, but you wish to be sure that it is composed of oils and not of rashests. When your face has been given its nightly cleansing, smooth on a little nourishing cream and leave it on all night. It puts back the oils which the years tend to take out of your complexion.

A foundation cream is another necessity. There are grand liquid ones and also cream varieties, if you prefer. But do get one and put it on before you touch your face with either powder or rouge. It keeps the skin moist and soft and protects it from wind and dust.

TOLD SHE WOULD NEVER GET RID OF SCIATICA

But Bathurst, N.B., woman did—at the cost of $1—with T-R-C's

Here is the story of a woman who, six years ago, was terribly crippled with Sciatica—that sharp, stabbing pain from thigh to heel. She actually lay on hot water bottles for weeks, and was told her case was so bad she would never get rid of her Sciatica.

"My landlady saw I was hopeless and told me of a man who had banded there getting rid of his Rheumatism by using T-R-C's (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules). This man hadn't walked for years, but by taking a steady treatment had driven the Rheumatism right out of him."

Shining Example of the Perfect Home-wrecker; Mother Who Insists on Coming Before Wife Sure to Wreck Son's Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a nice-girl and people think well of me. I spend all my time and money on dress. I am going around with a married man who, while living with his wife, spends his week-ends with me and gives me wonderful times. This man has a nice home and his wife is a nice girl, but she is not pretty like I am. He gives her very little money and never takes her anywhere. I say things about her in a loving way that, when he thinks them over, makes him mean to her. And I buy him scarfs, shirts and handkerchiefs so that she will see them and it will hurt her. I have done everything I can think of to hurt her and make her leave him.

People will criticize me if I go out with a married man living with his wife, and I don't want them to do that. So will you please tell me how I can separate them? BELLE.

Answer—It appears to me, Belle, that your technique as a housewife is perfect. I don't see how Mrs. Machlaviell herself could improve upon it.

Boiling yourself up, so that you enhance all of your good looks with pretty clothes, while the poor wife has to scrimp along on a shabby outfit. Pretending to be the wife's friend, while you insinuate things against her that poison her husband's mind. Making the husband spend all of his money on you so that he has none to spend at home. Flattering the husband's infidelity in his wife's face and parading the intimacy that permeates you to give him presents of wearing apparel before her. Really, you don't seem to have missed a point.

And if that doesn't make the wife so green with jealousy and so disgusted with her poor, weak, makeshift of a husband that she will leave him, I don't know what will. At any rate, you will have the consolation of having done your best to steal a woman's husband from her and break her heart and ruin her home.

Generally, when a girl starts out to get married, she begins by making him think that his wife is too good for him. She tells him that, in some miraculous manner, he is still a boy and that the years that have made his wife middle-aged have left him still a gay and carefree lad. The older a man is and the punchier and more baldheaded he is, the quicker he falls for this line, but I take it that in your case this easy approach is not available, as the wife appears to be young also.

Then the love thief, who specializes in married men, convinces the man that his wife does not understand him or appreciate him and that she alone does.

But you appear to have worked this lead out for all it is worth, so really I haven't a suggestion to offer about how to expedite your work as a first step to divorce.

But what are you going to do, Belle, when you accomplish your fell plan? Do you think you are going to be happy when you have taken this woman's husband from her? Do you think you can build a house that will stand on the wreck of another woman's home? Do you think that a man who has been faithless to one wife will be faithful to another? Don't you know that if you could take him away from his wife, some other woman will be able to take him away from you?

And don't call yourself a nice girl, Belle. No other woman in the world is as despicable as the woman who deliberately sets herself to rob another woman of her husband.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—My son and his wife have lived with me ever since their marriage several years ago. He is my only child, all I have in the world and I cannot bear the thought of his leaving me. He always comes to me with his difficulties in business matters and tells me that I come first in his life. His wife is not as appreciative as she might be and is not always in the best of humor. Now don't you think I am doing right by keeping my son with me as long as I can?

MOTHER MAR.

Answer—No, I think you are doing a very great wrong, not only to your son's wife, but to your son himself.

You are ruining his life, because you are wrecking his marriage. You are separating him from his wife, because you are coming between them. And even if the marriage doesn't end in divorce—as it probably will—you will have made it one of those accursed husks of marriage that are nothing but an endurance test.

Every marriage is a failure in which the wife does not come first with the husband. If he does not love her better than anybody else in the world, better even than his mother; if he does not go to her for sympathy, for advice, for understanding, it simply means that he is not getting the immeasurable out of marriage that he hoped for.

And if the husband turns to his mother instead of his wife; if he depend upon his mother instead of upon his wife; if mother comes first, then marriage is an utter failure to the wife, and she is filled with a jealousy that eats out her very soul.

So, Mother Mary, if you have for your son that love that makes you put his happiness above your own, you will not want to be first with him. You will abdicate the throne in favor of his wife, and you will send them off to live by themselves so that they will have to depend on each other and have a chance to grow together.

Of course, this requires a tremendous sacrifice of you, but if you love your son one-tenth as much as you think you do, you will not balk at it. You will put his good above your own.

Think back to the days when you were a bride. Would you have liked it if your husband had loved his mother better than he did you? Would you not have resented it if he went to his mother to talk over his plans and hopes instead of coming to you? And would you have wanted his mother to keep him with her or let you have a home of your own?

DOROTHY DIX.

THE PALACE OF MINOS

Between Greece and Egypt is a sea, and in that sea is the island of Crete. This island is not so widely-known as some others; but it contains the ruins of one of the great palaces of olden times. Long ago it served as a "half-way station" for Egyptian learning which passed to Greece. Some of the Greek ideas of religion were gained from Crete.

It appears that part of the writing is referred to objects which were kept in the palace. The objects were kept in the palace but the most part the writing of Crete has remained a mystery to scholars.

If you want the free matter, Crete is a very beautiful island in Europe. Send a stamped return envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

The fact that the total expenses of our campaign were only about $178 shows that when the common people are in earnest about anything, shortage of funds is not going to stop them, and in a contest where the next contest, which we are already preparing for, will be more of a surprise to the old parties than this one was.

"GUY SHEPPARD AND RUSSIA"

To the Editor:—Having listened to Guy Sheppard's address in which he points out the ridiculousness of any of our capitalists riding in a model "T" Ford, it would seem appropriate to draw Mr. Sheppard's attention to the following fact, as written by Massey in his book entitled "Stalin":

Mr. Massey records that the Soviet Government finds it necessary to employ a little strategy whenever their Dictator wishes to travel. Five identical Rolls Royces are provided for Mr. Stalin if he wishes to go from his home in the Kremlin. All five cars assemble at his door, a man under guard steps into each and the cars then proceed by divers routes to his office, and it is for the loyal subject to guess at which car to shoot. At least Sir Herbert Holt in his Rolls Royce does not find it necessary to hide his identity from would-be assassins.

Mr. Sheppard made several references to the Russia he knew during 1918-19. He drew pictures of atrocities which, in his own words, "make Soviet horrors read as bed-time stories." It may be as well for him to remember that the monarchy was overthrown in 1917, and what he saw was a country in the throes of a revolution. Russia was passing through its Reign of Terror, an hysterical condition similar to that of France in 1793. Surely any form of government would seem an improvement on such a condition.

It seems a very significant fact that men holidaying in this country, employed by Soviet Russia, paint much "roster" pictures of that country than those who make unofficial visits there.

—BYSTANDER—

"RELIGION AN OPiate"

To the Editor:—Quite frequently of late the remark has been made: "The Bible is an opiate. It should not be taught in our schools!"

The Bible being its own interpreter it should be read in the schools without comment rather than read with a wrong interpretation; but it certainly has a claim on, and a right to, a first place in our schools, public institutions and governments as it has in our churches and in our homes, since through it God speaks to all creatures, everywhere. Had it been given its rightful place the world would have been better off to-day.

Man-made religion may act as an opiate, but not so the undistorted Gospel of Christ, which is an "eye-opener" instead; it being "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

Queen Victoria attributed, and rightly so, the greatness of the Empire to the prominence given the Bible in Britain. Numberless eminent men throughout the ages have upheld it as an incomparable, unique and supernatural book, the Book of Books. Millions laid down their lives for the integrity of its truth and millions even now would do so.

The Bible is inspired by God's Holy Spirit, God Himself says so, and His Spirit witnesses to our spirit to that fact. As a link in a wonderful continuous chain, so is every word, title and iota indispensable in God's complete revelation to man as written from Genesis 1.1 to Revelation 22. xxi. It is God-breathed.

We keep in prominence on our desk next to the Bible, Fox's Book of Martyrs, lest we forget the debt we owe to that "cloud of witnesses" for the sacred heritage they left us at such a tremendous cost. This heritage we shall, by the grace of God, never allow any modernistic preacher nor any "soap-box orator" to snatch from us.

Scuffers may come and scuffers may go, but "the Word of God shall stand for ever," and that for ages after the former will have passed into oblivion. In the meantime we shall "earnestly contend for the faith" in the infallible Word of God, testifying:

"Faith of our fathers, living still
In spite of dungeon, fire and sword,
O how our hearts beat high with joy
Whenever we hear that glorious Word,
Faith of our fathers, holy faith,
We will be true to thee till death."

COWICHAN ELECTS OXFORD GROUPER

To the Editor:—Mr. Hugh Savage told us at his last meeting that if the Liberals got in there would be lots of trouble. My prediction is that his trouble will be a psychological problem, and that he will be nailed to the cross until the next election, which will be sooner than some people might expect. His reward will be psychological compensation.

Kearns Out of Retirement to Handle Latest British Heavyweight

Jean Borotra Makes Startling Comeback as Singles Player

Harold Larwood Will Not Retire From Cricket Play

Jack Kearns, who solemnly announced his retirement from the ring and his sordid affairs a few months ago, suddenly has become unretired. It is very hard to retire Kearns, whose chin is equipped with perpetual motion attachments. The cause of Kearns' newest retirement is the arrival of the British heavyweight giant, Jack Pettifer, of some 260 pounds displacement, and six feet seven inches tall. Pettifer, like Pauline Dussaud, has spent most of his ring career to date leading with his chin, but a fact like that does not deter the enthusiastic Kearns, who built up Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker.

"Give us three men the same night," says Jack, "and my Pettifer will win their ears. Game! And he can take it! Just wait until you see him! He's a track star, too. You could get around so fast. But he can do 100 yards in under 11 seconds. An all-round athlete. Strong as an ox. Just the kind of a guy Kearns would find plenty tough to shove around."

"Give us some fights and we'll show you. Give us anybody. Give us Kearns, and you'll see a new champion."

Aside from Kearns' comprehensive claims for his importation from Limbo, there are a few records in the book which he forgets to mention. Not so long ago, Pettifer was placed in London ring with Jack Peterson, another of the unknown British heavyweight champions. Peterson, giving Pettifer something like sixty pounds in weight, six inches in height, and a foot or so of reach, "played an incessant tattoo" of punches on Pettifer's chin. "I hit the blighter sixty times on the jaw," says Peterson. "It took me almost twelve rounds to knock him out."

Jean Borotra, who retired from singles play and competed only in the doubles in the challenge round of the Davis Cup is again in the limelight as a very serious singles player. He played the French International Club against the International Club of Great Britain. In his first match Borotra defeated John Olliff, 6-2, 6-4. But then the game was a remarkable performance. He beat H. W. Austin, one of the two players responsible for recapturing the Davis Cup from France, 1-6, 6-3.

That was on the wood floor of the covered courts at the Queen's Club, London. The Basse has always been at his best on this surface. It gives him the perfect surface for his lightning incursions to the net—in which footwork plays so important a part. That Austin could not successfully counter the flashing racket work of a man who is "too old for singles" is not a comforting reflection. But he is not past his prime. He has never been as strong as he was in the past, but he is no weaker now than he was when he must help to defend the Davis Cup at Wimbledon and there is no evidence that he will be any stronger on the centre court next year when he must help to defend the Davis Cup at Wimbledon and there is no evidence that he will be any stronger on the centre court next year when he must help to defend the Davis Cup at Wimbledon.

Borotra proved that he is very far from being a spent force at the strenuous singles game. That he should contemplate entering only for the doubles at Wimbledon after they are hard to understand, for he is still a volleyer of the highest order. It was certainly his volleying which pulled him through against the polished play of Austin.

In the first set Austin was scoring with precision and driving with great skill. So much so, that Borotra found incursions to the net of no profit, and accordingly he stayed back, but it was the old-time Borotra who made up his mind to storm the net to quell such an admirable foe in the next two sets.

Whatever happens to Harold Larwood's injured foot, he is not going out of cricket. At Old Trafford, he has made good with a new method. He has made up his mind about that. And why should he not be a good spinner if he made good with a new method. Several who put their faith in speed at the beginning of their careers have met duce their pace. Schofield, Haigh, B. J. T. Bosanquet, and R. O. Schwarz, both pioneers of the goosy, and Leonard Braund, whose slow leg break helped to win test matches, all bowed fast when they first played for their countries.

VICTORIA WINS GRASS HOCKEY

Victoria women's grass hockey squad on Saturday afternoon trounced a team from Duncan at Old Bay ground, coming lay through on the long end of a 6 to 0 count. The game marked the first of the season on the local pitch for the women and a good brand of hockey was displayed. Miss M. Harris contributed three of Victoria's counters. Miss A. Hartley, two, and Miss K. Williams, one. Captain Porter and J. Fletcher refereed.

Australian Champ Will Meet Classy Field At Belmont

After Great Victory at Pimlico Saturday Invader Ranks in Select "400"

Flying Heels To Start To-morrow

Field Will Also Include Sgt. Byrnes and Good Advice; Winooka to Be Favorite

New York, Nov. 6.—Having elevated himself to a place among turfdom's "400" with a pair of convincing victories last week, Winooka rested to-day at stylish Belmont Park, awaiting the bugle call to-morrow for another international test against some of America's bluebloods. The winged hooves and stout heart displayed by the big bay from Australia when he raced six furlongs at Baltimore Saturday in 1.11 to win a match race, probably will install him favorite in to-morrow's test at the "high hat" United Hunts Association meet.

As opposition he will have J. Simon Healy's Flying Heels, J. Simonetta's Sgt. Byrnes, the Catawba Farm's Good Advice, and a few others. The last named star was in the field that found Winooka's reserve speed too much in the $2,500 match event at Pimlico Saturday.

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 6.—Winooka, Australian champion and wonder horse, ran a smashing race here Saturday to win the special invitation Handicap at six furlongs. Coming from behind at the half-way mark with a blinding burst of speed, the Aussie forged to the front to win by two lengths in the fast time of 1.11.

The five-year-old sprint marvel defeated four hand-picked thoroughbreds selected for the invitation event which had a value of $2,500. It was Winooka's second win of the week here, Saturday he left no doubt as to his class. Trailing him came Mrs. S. H. Fairbank's Gold Step, which was second, and the Catawba Farm's Good Advice, the third-place horse. Tambour and Springtime were also runners.

HEAVY FAVORITE

The victory put the son of Wind-bag back in the place of prestige he lost by his first two eastern races, when he ran a dismal last and a third. He already was high in the minds of the betters, who made him the heavy favorite. He paid them $5.80 on the $2 totalizator ticket.

Winooka proved much the best horse in the race. He broke last, but Edgar Britt, his jockey from Down Under, held him in restraint until the turn out of the back stretch when he allowed him to go. The heavy favorite, who was galloping easily as he crossed the line.

J.B.A.A. TO BE SCENE OF DANCE

Badminton players of the J.B.A.A. will hold another of their popular winter dances at the clubhouse on Wednesday evening. Extensive arrangements have been made by the committee to provide the music for dancing from 9 o'clock until 1 a.m. Supper will be served at 11 o'clock. The committee consists of Miss Ethel Saunders, Dorothy Norman, Bill Cline and W. Dillabough. Tickets may be obtained from any of the members.

Junior Football

In the first round of the Lower Island Cup series for junior soccer teams, Royal Oak and James Island eleven were victorious on Saturday. The former defeated Oaklands 4 to 0, while James Island registered a similar win over North Saanich. In the only league encounter of the day, Jokers won from Esquimalt, 6 to 1.

Tie For Honors In Women's Golf Play

Mrs. R. J. Tyhurst and Miss Peggy Allen tied for first place in the highly competitive play over the Gorge Vale course during the week-end.

On Sunday a team from the Ardmore Golf Club will meet a team of the Gorge Vale members at the latter course, play to start between 11 and 12 o'clock. Both teams and starting times will be announced later in the week.

ICE GOSSIP

If exhibition games mean anything, New York Rangers are headed for another great season. The world champions to-day had their third straight win chalked down and were looking for new victims for their pre-schedule scoring punch.

Celebrating the signing of Babe Seibert, their only hold-out, Les Patrick's men won a charity affair 3 to 1 from Montreal Maroons in Montreal Saturday night. Previously they had taken Boston Bruins in Quebec and Montreal Canadiens in Kingston.

Toronto Leafs won two games over the week-end but were impressive in neither. Syracuse International held them to a 1 to 1 score during the regular playing time and eight minutes of overtime had been played before Irvin Bailey snapped the winning shot past Will Cude.

Toronto was held to a 5 to 2 win over a makeshift Buffalo Bison team Saturday night. However, Leafs loaned Bisons five players for the evening and both Buffalo goals were scored by Leafs masquerading in Bison uniform.

"King" Clancy showed a scoring punch he lacked last year when he drilled in two of Toronto's goals. He combined with Mac Kilne and Bailey for the first and snared the second on a pass from Joe Primeau.

Boston Bruins and Canadiens put on the best exhibition of the training camp at Quebec Sunday, Bruins winning 2 to 1. The pace was fast and the going heavy, four players suffering injuries.

Bruins were without Eddie Shore, colorful defense star, who is still on his Alberta farm refusing to agree to Boston's salary offer.

Possible solution of Ottawa's contract trouble with Cooney Weiland was seen in the trip Eddie Gerard made Sunday to the capital. The Montreal Maroon manager admitted he was interested in the Senator centre and it is possible he will land with the Montreals.

NANAIMO IN SOCCER WIN

Steve Krall's Goal Gives Up-Island Eleven 1 to 0 Victory Over Renfrew Argyles

Nanaimo, Nov. 6.—A well-placed shot into the corner of the net by Steve Krall, Nanaimo's hustling centre forward, gave them a 1 to 0 victory over Renfrew Argyles last night.

The home team were aggressors throughout the match, but poor shooting by their forwards nullified most of their efforts. A crowd of 900 fans was in attendance.

With Nanaimo pressing continuously in the initial half, Jackson, the pivot man, had several golden opportunities, but his shots and his sole contribution was a header, which hit the corner of the upright with Lawrie out of position. The Argyles only dangerous attack came just as the whistle blew for half time when Inkster gathered in a pretty shot from Ashford.

Winnipeg Goal

Immediately upon resumption, Krall, who replaced Jackson, went down the field and sent in a great shot to Lawrie and for a few minutes the visitors goal was in constant danger. Renfrew took a share of the play. Hills slipped the ball ahead to Krall, who, evading Heath nicely, banged it into the corner for the only counter of the match.

The home team slackened a little and Argyles forced them strongly, but without serious danger. Rys and Wilkinson were the pick of the visitors with Connel and Hill doing well.

COLWOOD TEAMS WIN BASKETBALL

Colwood, Nov. 6.—Saturday night's double-header hoop games in the City and Suburban League gave victories to the two Colwood teams in Colwood Hall, when the British Motorcycle Club was defeated by the B. and K. senior team 24 to 43, and Colwood B team won from Lake Hill 23 to 31.

Fred Harding refereed both games. Line-ups follow:

TORCHY PEDEN PLACES SECOND

Victoria Bike Rider and Partner Runners-up to Wissel-Walthour at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Ewald Wissel, Germany, and Jimmy Walthour, New York, won Chicago's thirtieth international six-day bike race which ended at 12:04 a.m. Sunday morning.

Previous to winning here, Wissel finished third in a six-day race which ended in Toronto last Saturday night. He flew to Chicago to substitute for Freddie Spencer, who was to have been Walthour's partner. Wissel and Walthour covered 2,321 miles, nine laps and scored 612 points. By marvelous sprinting they won the race in the last ten minutes of the grind by gaining a lap.

Torchy Peden, Victoria, B.C., and Alfred Letourner, France, finished in second place, scoring 1,040 points and beating out the teams of George Dempsey, Brooklyn, and Bobby Thomas, Kenosha, Wis., as well as Tino Reboli, Newark, N.J., and Giovanni Manera, Italy, who also covered one lap less than the leaders. Dempsey and Thomas accounted for 570 points, while Reboli and Manera scored 110 points.

V.A.C. Gridders Outclass Locals In One-sided Win

Don Stewart and Bert Downey Star in 21 to 0 Victory of Mainlanders

Victoria Collapses After Holding Invaders Scoreless in First Quarter

Led by two stellar yard gainers, Don Stewart and Bert Downey, Vancouver Athletic Club rolled up a 21 to 0 victory over Victoria in the Big Four Canadian Rugby League engagement at the Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon. A smashing offensive in the last three-quarters after a scoreless opening period gave the Vacs their decisive win. The Victoria squad, after the first quarter, was outclassed, and in the third and fourth periods it was only a matter of how many points the Vacs would win by. The game attracted the largest crowd of the season and the thousand odd fans were keenly disappointed over the showing of the locals.

An added attraction was the burlesque game staged at half-time with "Rebel" Mowat, of baseball fame, captaining one team and Dan Dowell the other. Mowat was assisted by several of his Gray Line baseball team and a number of Chinese. The fixture created a lot of laughs. The Boys' Band was in attendance, while children were admitted free and supplied with candy.

The Vacs in scoring their victory pulled off a number of smart plays. Their tackling, line-bucking and defensive work was far superior to Victoria. They scored three touchdowns, through Stewart, Burley and Lewis, while Stewart booted a field goal from forty yards out. All the touchdowns were converted.

During the four quarters Victoria attempted ten forward passes and completed four, while the Vacs tried five and completed two. The tackling of the Victoria players was weak and time after time the Vacs got away when they should have been stopped dead.

Victoria managed to hold the visitors to a scoreless deadlock in the first quarter. Both teams adopted kicking tactics, although Stewart and Downey both pulled off healthy gains for the visitors on center line runs and end runs. Stewart thrilled the crowd when he gathered in a long kick by Gribble and scored thirty yards before pulled by Cox. The latter was injured in making the tackle and left the field. Vancouver made yards on two bucks through the centre to place the ball on Victoria's five-yard line. Two more line plunges failed to put the Vacs over and on the third one they were penalized ten yards for shoving. In possession on their own fifteen-yard line Victoria's kicker, just before the end of the quarter, D. Blaquiere intercepted a Vancouver pass and started for the visitor's line with a clear field, but was pulled down after making twenty yards.

Gribble attempted a forward pass to Colgate as the quarter ended.

With the opening of the second quarter the Vacs made their own kick and pulled down the V.A.C. receiver on his five-yard line. It was a smart bit of running. The Vacs kicked to put the ball on the forty-yard line. On the first down Gribble pulled a fake pass play and Innie made yards for Victoria. Victoria tried two forward passes that were knocked down. Vacs made yards on two successive downs and Victoria was penalized ten yards for having thirteen men on the field. With about two minutes to go, Vancouver went into a 16 to 7 yard when Stewart booted a place kick between the Victoria posts from forty yards out. It was a beautiful effort.

FIRST TOUCHDOWN

Soon after the opening of the second half the Vacs scored their first touchdown. Downey broke through the middle of the Victoria line for a thirty-yard gain that placed the ball on the local's fifty-yard line. On the next play Stewart went around the end for a major score. He converted his own placement. Victoria went to the air in an effort to make yards and two of four forward passes were completed for a yardage gain of thirty-five yards. The quarter ended with the ball on Victoria's fifty-three yard line.

The final quarter saw the Vacs hold a determined edge. They got into a scoring position when Downey followed up fast to gather in his own kick on Victoria's fifteen yard line. After two centre line bucks had failed Norm Burley, husky coach of the V.A.C., tore through the middle to score the ball down. A forward pass Downey to Bartlett was good for the extra point giving the visitors a 15 to 0 lead.

A few minutes before the final whistle the Vacs scored their final touchdown, Lewis being responsible. A fake forward pass baffled the Victoria team and Lund walked over the local line to make the conversion.

Neil Watson, Vancouver, refereed and Dick Wilson, Victoria, was the umpire. The teams were:

Vancouver—Lewis Du Temple, Marichers, McKenzie, Brown, Bartlett, Norther, Yerman, Chodot, Downey, Stewart, Archibald, Foggo, Pollock, McKie, Moore, Small and Lund.

Victoria—Usher, Dredgale, Colgate, Cox, De Blaquiere, Rogers, Wood, Stipe, Innie, Gribble, Latta, Lemm, Nichol, McCullum, Simpson, Wright, White, Kinsman, Graham, Dempster, McInnes, Lowe and Marley.

In the A match Gorge Vale won the singles, 12 to 6, but lost the four-somes, 15 to 5. The B match saw the Uplands members win the four-somes, 15 to 5, and the singles, 13 to 7.

Calgary Altomahs And Winnipeg To Battle For Crown

Meet Next Saturday to Decide Champions of Western Canada Football

Calgary Turns Back Meralomas

Rallies in Last Quarter to Score 13 to 11 Win; Winnipeg Whip Regina

Calgary, Nov. 6.—Vancouver's Meralomas to-day were on their way home, third coast rugby team to be turned back by Calgary in the western semi-finals. Despite the prettiest display of open field running and kicking seen here this season, Meralomas Saturday bowed to Calgary Altomahs, 13 to 11, and dropped the right to play Winnipeg in the western finals.

But as they boarded the train here Saturday night in perfect condition and displaying undampened spirits, the Coast boys still chuckled over the smart way they fooled the Indians for one of their touchdowns.

Speedy running and passing in the English rugby style had brought Meralomas to within a yard of the Calgary line. The clubbers faked a long-end run and Hammond coolly tossed a forward to Kelly, who had stepped across the line and was yards from any interference when he placed the ball to the turf for five easy points.

More than 2,000 persons enjoyed perfect weather conditions as Meralomas began the game by rushing round the end of Calgary's line for steady gains and rolling up a lead of 11 to 6 in the first half. But Calgary's superior weight began to tell in the second half and they plunged down the field for a well-earned touch which they followed with a kick into touch in goal that clinched the victory with one minute to go.

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—They were cleaning out the western Canada rugby throne room to-day for new tenants. For the first time in eight years Regina's Rough Riders will be absent from the annual coronation. Perennial Monarchs of western gridirons the Riders went down to a 11 to 1 defeat at the hands of Carl Cronin's, revamped Winnipeggers here Saturday.

Unsuspected power that lay in the Peg-backfield halted the annual title march the Riders inaugurated away back in 1926. Four kicks to the dead-line and a smashing touchdown by Carl Cronin in the fourth quarter gave the Winnipeggers their advance to the final with Calgary Altomahs. The western final will be staged next Saturday.

The Winnipeggers, with a backfield that worked to perfection, were content to hold the Riders in the first three periods. In the last quarter, however, they uncovered a neat forward passing movement. Three kicks to the dead-line by Greg. Kabat, another by Carl Cronin coupled by a rouge by Red Currie, gave the Pegs their margin.

Toronto, Nov. 6.—Football's fallen mightily to-day. Included the three brigades that a week ago were favorites to meet in the eastern playoff arena, Sarnia Imperials, Ottawa Rough Riders and Queen's University. Saturday marked the harvest toll of favored teams this season.

Most surprising of all was the victory of St. Michael's College over the previously unbeaten Imperials by 9 to 4. A bewildered crowd of 500 saw the Irish score a touchdown in the first minute of play and then held the strongmen of the O.R.F.U. in check for the rest of the struggle.

The upset left Balm Beach in a contending position. They must win a replay of a tie game with St. Michael's and finish up by beating Imperials in Sarnia to capture the title.

A crowd of 16,000 watched Argonauts smother Ottawa 21 to 4 in a wide open Big Four game and reach a point where they can create a deadlock for first place by beating Montreal next Saturday. Rough Riders, helpless along the wingline, were dashed by the first Argonaut that netted a safety touch and a touchdown in the early part of the game. At Hamilton, Montreal defeated the Tigers 9 to 2. Huck Welch scoring every Wheeler point with his kicking. The Bengals played doggedly in a vain effort to win their first victory. As McGill stopped Queen's rush to the intercollegiate championship by scoring down the tricolor, 17 to 1, University of Toronto overcame Western a London 22 to 14, and went into a three-cornered tie for first place with Queen's and McGill.

English Football Leaders Given Titanic Battle By West Bromwich Albion

Chinese Player Makes His Debut

Frank Soo Turns Out With Stoke City; Thompson, Blackburn, Pulls Hat-trick

London, Nov. 6.—Tottenham Hotspurs, up from the second division of the English Football League to hold the leadership in the championship race, emerged triumphant Saturday from a titanic struggle between the two fastest elevens in the league, Spurs themselves and West Bromwich Albion, on the latter's grounds. Spurs won, 2 to 1, and as Arsenal, league champions, were held to a 1 to 1 tie by Portsmouth at Highbury, Tottenham, are now a full game in front.

Thirty thousand persons turned out to see the Spurs battle the Albion. Wood scored for the Albion within five minutes. Evans, Spurs' brilliant left-winger, equalized only three minutes later. Both teams were masterly on the attack and they maintained a terrific pace. Howe finally put Spurs in the lead just before the interval. The Londoners' defence held out and they managed to keep the upper hand until the final whistle.

TWO QUICK GOALS

At Highbury 55,000 people turned out to see Gunners held by the keen tackling and sure kicking of the Albion men. The dangerous Arsenal attacks were well held until Bastin, their international star, netted, but Portsmouth with their long, speedy passing, managed to equalize within a few minutes when Sidney at centre-half for the Gunners sent the ball in his own net in a goalmouth struggle.

The results left Arsenal tied with Huddersfield Town for second place. The latter eleven beat Everton 1 to 0 on Everton's field. Huddersfield's goal was secured by Smith just before half-time.

Stoke City, who came up to the first division with Spurs this season, introduced Frank Soo at inside left for their match with Middlesbrough and were swamped 4 to 1. Soo was the first Chinese to be seen in first class soccer in England.

PULLS HAT TRICK

Blackburn Rovers trimmed Wolverhampton 7 to 1 to creep up into seventh position. Forwards had a field day, Thompson pulling the hat trick before he was carried off with injuries. On the other hand, Chelsea lost 2 to 1 to Sheffield Wednesday.

Fort Vale, fast and clever, and continually on the attack, defeated Oldham Athletic to emerge undisputed leaders of the second division with nineteen points. Coventry, three, who had been tied with the Vale, slipped back into third place when Southampton beat them 1 to 0. Grimsby Town beat Millwall 1 to 0. Norwich City regained leadership of the southern section of the third division, Barnes and Bell scoring to give them a 2 to 0 victory over Cardiff City. Queen's Park Rangers, however, are closely pressing them, beating Charlton Athletic to get within a point of Norwich City. Charlton Athletic and Crystal Palace were knocked down from the triple tie for leadership. Chesterfield continued to run away with the northern section of the third division. Saturday they beat Rotherham 3 to 1 to increase their lead to six points ahead of Stockport.

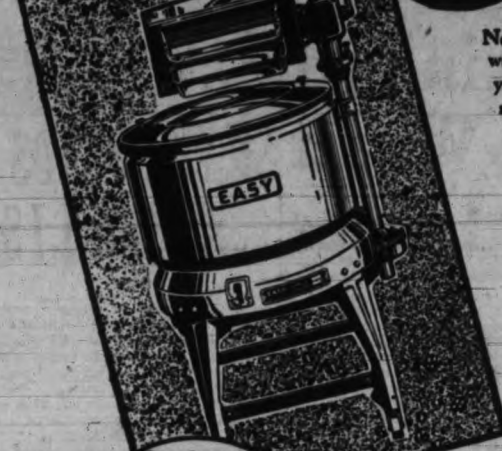

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 6.—Motherwell are unbeaten in the first division of the Scottish Soccer League. Saturday they defeated Dundee 3 to 2, record their fourteenth victory out sixteen starts, the other two matches having been drawn.

The leaders, however, did not have things too easy with the Dundee eleven. MacFadyen, the international, opened the scoring and Ogilvie got a couple more counters for Motherwell, Robertson scoring Dundee's goals.

Rangers, the league champions and winners of the Glasgow Cup, continued four points behind Motherwell by beating Clyde 3 to 1. Smith scored all three of the champions' goals, while McCulloch got Clyde's counter.

Aberdeen and Kilmarnock, tied for third place, battled it out and Aberdeen emerged on top by a 2 to 0 score, getting their goals through Moore. Fine weather and firm grounds

"Hands Off Germany" Is Hitler's Demand

Associated Press.
Elbing, Germany, Nov. 6.—Chancellor Hitler told thousands gathered here in East Prussia Sunday the hands off policy practiced by Germany in regard to other nations' domestic affairs entitled Germany to the same consideration from foreign powers.

Yesterday was "Guy Fawkes Day" in England and he referred to the gunpowder plot of 1605 by saying: "When persons attempted to dynamite the British Parliament, they chopped their heads off and they still celebrate the day."

Hitler again reaffirmed Germany's desire for peace.

UNIQUE NEW DELIVERY CAR

Three-wheel Vehicle Shown
By National Motor Co.

The National Motor Company Limited present for inspection of the merchants of Victoria a new English delivery vehicle of striking design and economy possibilities. It is the Raleigh light delivery van, which has been the subject of much favorable comment by English automotive journals, and is credited with substantially reducing transportation costs in many lines of industry.

The Raleigh is a three-wheel vehicle with an attractively designed body of forty-nine cubic feet capacity. Such a body has a load capacity up to 500 pounds, and is roomy enough for loads of groceries, meat, fish, vegetables, etc., and is pronounced ideal for laundries, dry-cleaners and others requiring transportation of light, bulky packages.

Fifty to sixty miles per gallon is claimed for the Raleigh light delivery. It has a single cylinder air-cooled motor, with ample power for speedy delivery at load capacity. It not only affords economy in operation, but its initial cost is considerably lower than any four-wheel van on the market. Merchants and others who are interested in lowering merchandise delivery costs are invited by National Motor Company Limited to see this new English vehicle in their showrooms tomorrow.

FRED ATTWOOD SPEAKS HERE

Blind Prelate of Pythian
Order Pays Visit to Far

Need For Young Blood in Organization Stressed in Address to Members

Fred S. Attwood, supreme prelate of the Knights of Pythias, who is totally blind, was here Saturday on an official visit to Far West Lodge No. 1, of the order and received a warm welcome.

At a gathering in the lodgerooms on Broad Street he was officially greeted by Mayor David Leeming, who gave a brief address on "Fraternalism." The world, he said, was suffering from fear and selfishness and until the people returned to fraternalism there was little hope of normal conditions coming back. Brotherly love and friendship between man and man, which the order strives to accomplish, was an essential in the progress of humanity.

Mr. Attwood spoke for more than one hour, holding the keen attention of his audience throughout. He appealed for a closer study of the aims and objects of the order declaring that what people most desire they must create.

BROTHERHOOD OF MAN

"We are looking for prosperity. We are waiting and praying for it. We are told it is just around the corner, but we live on a sphere and there are no corners. Prosperity is here. It has never left us, but we have been asleep and to realize that prosperity is still with us we must wake up. Activity must be created and then we will come into our full measure of the blessings of the world," he said.

REDUCED TO SCIENCE

Mr. Attwood defined fraternalism as "the brotherhood of man reduced to science." He illustrated the teaching of the order through the application of university methods.

The youth of the country should be encouraged in the value of the work of the order, he maintained. The value of the training given by the Knights of Pythias was not being brought home to the youth.

"We are not afraid to say that what is needed is new blood in the order, but we must be sure that it is the right kind of blood. Younger men must be taken into our organization if it is to carry on and function," he added.

The gathering Saturday night was marked by several musical turns including Ron Smith, novelty pianist, and Miss Nora Jones, contralto soloist. A. Manson, past chancellor, was in the chair of the evening. The Grand Chancellor, Alfred Hockley had charge of the arrangements.

Afterwards a reception was held at which members of the order here were introduced to the supreme prelate.

EXTRADITION PACT TO END

Washington, Nov. 6.—A curt note to Athens at the week-end termed Greece's denial of Samuel Insull's extradition "a clear violation of the American-Hellenic treaty of extradition" and sought the earliest possible termination of the covenant.

The diplomatic message, cabled to Lincoln MacVeagh, Minister at Athens, by the State Department, for delivery to the Foreign Minister of Greece, said the United States "has learned with astonishment" of the second refusal of Greek authorities to order the return of Insull, "a fugitive from American justice."

Greece's decision, it added, was "utterly untenable." Denunciation of the treaty to the Greek government was said by State Department officials to constitute the formal year's notice provided in the pact for its termination by either party.

BACHELORS ON WAY OUT

Rome, Nov. 6 (Associated Press).—Fascist party leaders to-day denied reports bachelor executives must marry or resign. However, there is an unwritten understanding that when high posts are made vacant preference is to be given married Fascists.
